

Velde Setup Rotten, Ranking GOP Says

Kearney Demands Showdown, Claims Back-Biting, Vote Hunt

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—A ranking Republican member charged today that the staff setup of the House Un-American Activities Committee is "rotten" and must be "cleaned up right away."

Rep. Bernard W. (Pat) Kearney (R-NY) told a hastily-summoned news conference that "the situation is intolerable."

Kearney is one of the committee members who led an attack on Chairman Harold H. Velde (R-Ill) two months ago over his abrupt firing of Louis J. Russell, the committee's $11,600-a-year chief investigator.

SEES VOTE DRIVE

Kearney also said he believes reports that Leslie Scott, a $6,927-a-year staff employee, has been assigned to checking Velde's Illinois constituents to help promote the chairman's reelection.

Velde, who is in Illinois, has reported that the staff is now "operating smoothly." Kearney said, however, that he still thinks the whole setup is "rotten—and it's time for a showdown."

Asked for a bill of particulars, he said there still is "a lot of back-biting, with one investigator trying to outdo the other, each trying to get a pay raise when none is warranted."

MUST FIND OUT

Kearney said "We've got to bring Scott and other members of the staff before the committee and find out what they're doing. We should find out if these people working for the committee are working for or against it."

Kearney said he brought up the matter at a secret meeting this morning, but the committee decided to delay action until Velde returns from a campaign trip in Illinois.

He said the committee got a wire from Velde saying he could not attend today's meeting and asking that it be postponed.

He said he was advised later that the meeting has been rescheduled for Thursday, April 1.

SALARY PAYMENTS

Kearney protested that the committee staff is so big that all but $78,000 of the $275,000 appropriation provided this year has been committed to the payment of salaries.

"The $78,000 is all that is left to conduct investigations," he said.

He also protested that the committee is too free with expenses. "We recently had two days of hearings in Chicago," he said. "Five witnesses were questioned and five investigators went along at the committee's expense."

Civil Liberties Union Backs Cross-Quiz

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—The American Civil Liberties Union, an occasional target of fire from Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), said today McCarthy should be given "full right" to cross-examine witnesses in the forthcoming probe of his row with Army officials.

Fredrick Murphy Malin, ACLU executive director, said however that McCarthy should conduct his cross-examination "solely as a witness and not as a member" of the Senate Investigations subcommittee which will make the inquiry. McCarthy is the subcommittee chairman, but has turned over the chair to Sen. Mundt (R-SD) for the inquiry.

Murphy sent a telegram to Mundt saying the controversy over McCarthy's dispute with Army Secretary Stevens "once again raises the important civil liberties issue that all witnesses testifying before congressional committees should be entitled to cross-examine their accusers."

The telegram continued: "This much overdue reform has been the central point in the effort of the American Civil Liberties Union and other national organizations interested in improving the procedures in congressional committee."

Christian Advocate Deplores 'Wild' Probe

CHICAGO, March 24 (AP)—The Christian Advocate, weekly news journal of the Methodist Church, tonight urged President Eisenhower to appoint a nonpartisan commission to replace congressional committees investigating communism in government.

In an editorial, the Advocate deplored "the bagging of big-name witnesses, the hurling of wild, irresponsible charges, the broadcasting of inflated speeches."

Weeping Jurors Convict Boy Of Slaying and Embrace Him

ALEDO, Ill., March 24 (AP)—James Gipson, 18, today was found guilty of slaying his high school track coach by jurors who embraced him and wept after delivering their verdict.

Gipson was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter in the fatal stabbing of Aledo High School Coach George Marich, 26, last year. Marich had reprimanded Gipson and two other youths in the study hall and an argument followed in the school corridor.

The jury of five men and seven women rushed to Gipson and embraced him after the verdict. The women wept and told the youth, "God bless you."

Judge Leonard E. Telleen said it was "the most unusual demonstration I have ever seen."

Gipson in turned embraced his parents as he heard the jury recommend a sentence of one to seven years in prison.

Gipson is one of nine children of a tenant farmer who worked hard at farm chores and never had been in trouble before. In addition, he worked after school hours for farmers in the area. Members of the community contributed to a fund, reportedly more than $3,000, to aid Gipson's defense.

THE LAST 4 EXCITING DAYS OF

Job Upturn Is Detected By Weeks

10,000 Rehired By Auto Makers

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Weeks today reported "some indications" of a slight decline in unemployment in March.

Weeks told the National Conference of Business Paper Editors that new claims for jobless pay dropped in more than a dozen states in mid-March. This has been accompanied, he said, by some "substantial rehiring" in the farm machinery industry and a pickup of about 10,000 jobs in the auto industry.

JOB RISE

"These and some other considerations give rise to the feeling that unemployment may not be as high in March as in February," he said.

The secretary noted that it will be mid-April before business indicators will become available for March—the month which President Eisenhower has designated as a crucial one.

"If we move ahead just a little in March, I'll be happy," Weeks told the editors. "From there on I think we can get the snowball rolling."

Weeks reiterated the assurances which he gave in Toronto Monday that the government would adjust taxes, increase money and credit supply and perhaps go into public works if the economic situation warranted.

BUILD HOPE

"But I think one of the things that has built confidence in the business community is the feeling that it will be allowed to work its way out of the situation without government interference every step of the way."

When persons having a "socialistic viewpoint" circulate the impression that the economy is headed for disaster, they "can make people delay buying for three or four months," Weeks said.

"That line of talk can make the difference between an economy going ahead or slowing down," he declared.

Israeli Asks U.N. Call Bus Killing Probe Now

New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution
JERUSALEM, March 24—The Israeli government has asked the Western powers to call an immediate session of the United Nations security council to discuss what it termed the massacre of 11 bus passengers in the Negev last Wednesday.

The announcement of this decision was made by Prime Minister Moshe Sharett in the Knesset (Parliament) today.

U.N., Big 3 Huddle on Israel Row

New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., March 24—Delegates of the Big Three Western powers met today with Secretary Dag Hammarskjöld to take up the sharpening tensions between Israel and the Arabs.

At the head of the agenda were the Israeli walkout yesterday from the Israel-Jordan-United Nations Mixed Armistice Commission and troubles that may lead from it.

Representatives of Britain, France, and the United States were called to the meeting by Hammarskjöld after the news broke that Israel had left the commission because of its failure to adopt a resolution blaming Jordan for the massacre of 11 Israelis last week.

Diplomatic sources here said that it was not likely that the Western Powers would bring the case to the Security Council immediately, as Israel has been urging.

Acting together, the Western Powers last October brought before the council the case of an Israeli attack on the Jordanian village of Kibya. But in that incident, it was pointed out here, the Mixed Armistice Commission had gone on record as finding Israel guilty of the attack.

Planes, Artillery Pound Reeling Rebel Besiegers

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indochina, March 25 (AP)—Communist-led Vietminh rebels rushing up fresh troops for a new assault on the besieged French Union dustbowl at Dien Bien Phu were reported today to be suffering heavy losses under massive French air and artillery hammerings.

They were believed to have lost more than 15,000 dead and wounded in the 12-day struggle for the fortress.

Army estimates put the Vietminh casualties at more than 3,000 killed and 9,000 wounded in the initial assaults on the fortress 12 days ago. Since then the Vietminh was believed to have been losing hundreds daily under French shell-fire and air attacks.

More rebels have been lost in clashes with French patrols or in attempted ambushes. The air force also has caused casualties by dropping tons of fire bombs on rebel troop concentrations. The French artillery has wiped out dozens of gun emplacements. Thus it is estimated that 15,000 killed and wounded would be a fair guess.

The hard-pressed French used American-supplied transport planes yesterday to drop tons of firebombs on rebels massed in the hills.

The French high command disclosed that for the first time American-supplied Flying Boxcars and Dakotas were employed on bombing missions against the Communist-led rebels. French pilots manned the craft in two big attacks north and northwest of the plains fortress, inflicting what were described as "heavy losses" on the rebels.

Entry of Flying Boxcars and C47s into the air war gave a fresh spurt to the intensive bombings that the French have been carrying on for the past 10 days. They have spread waves of fire for miles around Dien Bien Phu, hitting hardest in the north and northwest where enemy concentration were the heaviest. The French have asked the United States for at least 25 more B26 bombers and C47 transport planes for use in the battle for Dien Bien Phu. B26 bombers joined in today's attacks.

Clio Banker Hospitalized For Nerves

EUFULA, Ala., March 24 (AP)—Royall Reynolds, the errant banker who paralyzed the town finances of little Clio, Ala., has entered a hospital here for treatment of a "nervous condition." It was disclosed today.

Reynolds was brought from the Barbour County jail at Clayton to Salter Hospital here last night and admitted under an assumed name so that he will not be bothered while he "rests up," said Bert Davidson, hospital administrator.

Embezzlement charges have been filed against the 40-year-old head of the Clio Merchants Exchange in connection with the disappearance of $75,000 of its deposits. Reynolds remained under technical arrest in custody of hospital officials.

MOUNTING PRESSURE

Eufaula, also in Barbour County, is about 35 miles northeast of Clio and 15 miles east of Clayton.

Davidson said that Reynolds' condition was brought on by mounting pressures since he returned six days ago from a 12-day mystery trip during which the firm's funds vanished.

The only remaining known assets of the firm, $81,800 in an Atlanta bank, have been tied up in a garnishment filed by Reynolds' aunt and biggest depositor, and the stores and citizens of Clio have been without funds for 18 days.

TAKEN BY SHERIFF

Dr. James Reid, Barbour County health officer, ordered that Reynolds be taken to the hospital after examining him at the jail in Clayton. Sheriff William J. Adams drove the patient to Eufaula.

Meanwhile, the cashless citizens of Clio virtually gave up hope of getting repayment directly from Reynolds and concentrated on trying to get a pro rata return from whatever funds might be available. Reynolds claimed to have deposited $7,000 more in the Atlanta account. His aunt sought $75,000 of the amount.

Reynolds had promised to repay "every penny" even if he had to sell his two automobiles and his $20,000 home—the finest in Clio.

New Mexico Vote Like Those Reds Run, Says Hurley

WASHINGTON, March 24 (INS)—Gen. Patrick Hurley charged today that New Mexico elections "will be about as free" as those the Communists run unless there is a "cleanup" of what he called the "irregularities" on which he based his vain attempt to unseat Sen. Chavez (D-NM).

Hurley, who lost out to Chavez in 1952 by about 5,000 votes, charged that "apparently" the 53 senators who voted Tuesday against ousting Chavez "approved the methods used in New Mexico of preventing secrecy of the ballot by unscrupulous people."

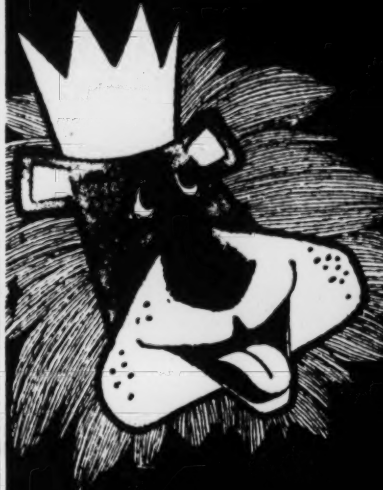

"Unless the situation is changed, the 1952 GOP candidate said, 'the election this fall in New Mexico will be about as free and as secret as one in East Germany or North Korea under Communist control.'"

A Political Poll Is Highly Pliable

House Speaker Fred Hand charged Wednesday that results of a "state conducted poll" are being made available to "one candidate for his political advantage."

We don't doubt it. It's an old political game—and a thoroughly disreputable one.

State Patrol officers and other traveling state employees can't very well refuse to conduct "a poll" when their superiors request it. Also, since they know what is desired, they usually come up with the answers they assume are wanted.

In election years Georgia always has a lot of "polls." Some are for sale. They can and do find the wind blowing in any desired direction. Other polls make a pretense of nonpartisanship but actually are adroitly manipulated. They are fuel for the gas tanks of stalled band wagons.

One of the evils of our elective system is that when an election nears various department heads, who want to retain their offices under the next governor, begin to choose up sides and put pressure on employees for contributions.

House Speaker Hand says this is going on now—and the primary is still nearly six months away. Indeed, says Mr. Hand, some state employees "are actively soliciting contributions from the employees under their jurisdiction" for campaign activities.

We are sure he is right about this, too. His assertions were made in reply to a very proper letter sent candidates by Cook Barwick, vice chairman of the State Merit Board, asking the cooperation of all candidates in keeping merit system workers out of politics.

Mr. Hand is the only one who has answered at this writing. He spoke forthrightly and to the point. We hope the others will do as much. And what is more, we trust that as many eagle eyes as possible will be kept on the situation to discover any other machinations.

Finally, as for surveys, the wise voter knows what happened to Dr. Gallup, with all his facilities, and won't be too impressed by the many "band wagon polls," rumors of which will be floating around Georgia from now until election time.

President Would Bench McCarthy in Army Probe

President Eisenhower's press conference of Wednesday was not too productive, but he did have two items worth noting.

In answer to a query about Sen. McCarthy's effort to control the probe of charges made against him and his two peculiar investigators, the President said that "no man should sit in judgment on his own case."

It will be interesting to see what the Senate does about that.

The President also noted previously reported good news—namely, that economists do not believe the economic situation is changing for the worse fast enough to require drastic measures. He still hopes for an upturn.

So do we.

Day Nursery Operators Move to Raise Standards

Atlantans who operate day nurseries are taking steps to put their houses in order. Not that some of the nurseries aren't already. But two surveys, one by the Woman's Chamber of Commerce and the other by The Constitution, have shown that many of the child care homes are woefully inadequate.

So the managers of 60 nurseries have formed an association dedicated to raising the standards of the profession. They are asking help from the county health and welfare departments, particularly in more frequent and rigid inspections and the enforcement of license requirements.

The nurseries themselves will profit from the attainment and maintenance of higher standards. But the chief beneficiary will be the child client and hence the community.

Give U.S. 23 Surface In Keeping With Scenery

The Clayton Tribune in Rabun County, which means principally its editor Eddie Barker, is campaigning for the improvement of U.S. Highway 23, entrance route to Georgia from the Highlands-Franklin area of mountainous western North Carolina.

Editor Barker has been stirred into action by a motor club routing which directs tourists away from U.S. 23 as a "bad way to go."

He doesn't quarrel with the description; in fact, he agrees. But he insists that the road should be made better.

The Constitution is in accord.

U.S. 23 from the state line near Dillard south is as described—"old, crooked, narrow and rough." The traveler can close his eyes and tell when he enters Georgia. The highway is under construction, too, between Buford and Flowery Branch, which accounts in part for the motor club rerouting.

U.S. 23 through Georgia is a sort of stepchild among roads, overshadowed by attention to Highways 41, 27, 301, 441 and others. But U.S. 23 is a glamorous route, if tortuous in parts, all the way from the Ohio River down along the Kentucky-West Virginia border, through Tennessee, North Carolina and north Georgia.

It deserves a surface in keeping with the scenery.

Democrats in Senate Present United Front

A solid front of Senate Democrats, joined by five Republicans and the lone Independent, Wayne Morse, easily put down a somewhat apologetic attempt by the GOP to unseat Democratic Sen. Dennis Chavez of New Mexico.

No accusations or charges were brought against Chavez. The Republican-controlled rules committee somewhat wistfully sought to declare "no election."

Most significant feature of the vote was that it emphasized a fact just now beginning to be noted in Washington. There is more Democratic Party unity in the Congress than there has been since the early days of the Roosevelt administration.

The fact that the Supreme Court has the issue of segregation, and that elimination of segregation is supported by the Eisenhower administration; the further fact that Fair Employment Practices legislation was not pushed by its proponents, were early factors making possible the approach to unity.

That unity has grown until now it has come to be the strongest force supporting the President in his major foreign policy planks. The President apparently has lost the initiative which was his at the opening of the present congressional session. It was destroyed by the McCarthy cancer.

Presently the initiative is held by party leaders not entirely sympathetic with the President's views. He can capture it again only by bold measures which will attract the Democrats.

As for the Democrats, congressional leaders will hold a great party rally in early May—a Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner in Washington. It will be the kick-off in the campaign to win control of the Congress in the November elections.

Unity—as it now exists—might well enable them to do just that.

Atlanta Musical Team Earns a Big Bravo

The Atlanta Music Club, a sturdy organization that has kept musical standards high and alive through bad times as well as good, will honor Marvin McDonald at a reception Thursday evening following Jennie Tourel's concert.

The occasion is the 20th anniversary of the association of Mr. McDonald, who without doubt is the South's leading impresario, and the members of the club. Twenty years ago they recognized a community of purpose, and since then have formed an unbeatable team. Together they have brought the world's greatest music to Atlanta and made the art of listening something of a civic virtue.

Atlanta, we are proud to say, is not one of those cities where good music is the exclusive property of the elect and where people go to concerts just because they think it is fashionable. Partly through the long association of the excellent Mr. McDonald and the indomitable members of the club, symphonies, concerts and operas are part of our daily bread and not esoteric fare for longhairs only.

May this old friendship continue to flourish for many more years, for it has profited everyone who is not tone deaf and has been a real asset to the city.

Russian Perfume Has Odor of Subversion

Ever since Mr. Malenkov assumed power, people have been waiting around for the Russian "new look" many foresaw. Well, we are happy to note that it's come about in part.

The people now can purchase perfumes, lipstick, face powder, rouge and toilet waters as part of Mr. Malenkov's program to make life as pleasant as possible.

As usual, the propagandists had a hand in the "new look." One of the perfumes is called "Jubilee of the Red Army," another is "Kremmlin." There is a "Spirit of Moscow."

Even so, we smell a subversive in the midst of all the propagandists. He's the guy who named one of the perfumes "Fly Away."

Civic Club Requests School Bond Issue To Provide Elementary School for Children

Atlanta—One of the main projects of the West Manor Civic Club is securing an elementary school for West Manor Community.

A school census taken nearly two years ago showed that within a mile radius of Southwest High School there were over two hundred children of grade school age who now travel three to five miles to attend schools and in many cases the parents have to furnish transportation.

Our Club has located a desirable school site, but unless funds to buy the site are made available soon we may lose it, as new subdivisions are being developed so fast that desirable sites for schools are rapidly disappearing.

Miss Jarrell and the School Board are in accord that we need a school, but are helpless due to lack of funds to buy the site and build the school.

Our Civic Club and the PTA organizations of this section have sent resolutions to our Mayor and Aldermen urging that immediate action be taken to place a $13,000,000 school bond issue before the voters for approval.

E. A. SEWELL, Chairman Improvement Committee, West Manor Civic Club.

Conyers—I suggest two separate independent school systems for Negro and white children.

America Must Keep Freedom Fire Burning

Atlanta — In all the tumult of McCarthyism and of communism, threats from totalitarianism of the left and of the right, perhaps we should remember some words by Franklin D. Roosevelt:

"If the fires of freedom and civil liberties burn low in other lands, they must be made brighter in our own. If in other lands the press and books and literature of all kinds is censored, we must redouble our efforts here to keep it free. If in other lands the eternal truths of the past are threatened by intolerance, we must provide a safe place here for their perpetuation."

GEORGIA DEMOCRAT.

Leo Aikman

He's an Aerial Free Loader

If Samuel Kirby, senior at Murphy High, doesn't make an "A" in aviation, it won't be because he hasn't tried. He has. He has a course in cruise passenger this week aboard Delta-C&S Air Line's brand-new DC-7. The young man traveled faster than he has anytime since he carried copy for The Constitution last summer.

And every time the airlines public relations maestro Jim Cobb or one of the pretty stewardesses, Misses Janet Fairchild and Peggy Bremer came around dispensing descriptive literature, Sam asked for two of each packet. The second one, he said, was for his teacher.

His teacher is Miss Sara Lee Hogan. The Murphy aviation course is the only one of its kind in the city system.

For travelers who have logged many hours aloft, like Admiral Jesse Douglas of the City Council and Skipper Burns of the mayor's office, the courtesy cruise was mostly a look at what is newest in air transport. But for Cadet Kirby and me, it was strictly an experience.

The Murphy senior had been up before but in a Piper Cub. As one whose travels are largely by asphalt and concrete, I am something of an aeronautical free loader. Twice I have paid for rides, the other five have been free.

The first was 15 minutes for a dollar in the cockpit of an American Eagle built by the Eagle Rock Corp., of Colorado. There were no goggles and with my glasses off, on advice of pilot, I scarcely got my money's worth. On the next flight, visibility was better—$3 for 20 minutes in the gondola of a blimp cruising over the Chicago World's Fair.

Then came at intervals a B29 ride and a helicopter, both of the same house, the Bell Aircraft people, two lifts in DC-3's, one with the Navy and the other the National Guard, and last Tuesday, the complimentary Atlanta circle tour complete with white carnation. And the cheaper they have come, the better. The only complaint I heard was from Councilman Ralph Huie because from the air he was unable to identify the Philadelphia Presbyterian Church near Morrow.

Those who want to get somewhere in a hurry might like to know that when the DC-7 starts making Atlanta a regular stop, in about six weeks, you can allow 2:03 hours to Miami and four minutes longer if you want to go to Chicago.

If you are interested in buying Mr. Douglas' latest model for private use, you should budget for $1,750,000 initial cost and for gasoline at eight gallons per minute of flight.

Jack Spalding

Diverse Is the Right Word for Georgia

Georgia will be on exhibition all next week to a group of strangers. Some of them will arrive doubting our virtues, but presumably are willing to change their minds.

The show is a Rabun Gap to Tybee Light proposition and will be as various as Georgia itself. It is under the auspices of the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce, an organization devoted to selling the merits of Georgia to the rest of the nation.

Guests will be officials of motor clubs from Florida, the East and the Midwest. Included in this group no doubt will be a few characters who have routed tourists around Georgia to save them from such over-advertised horrors as speed traps, lumpy mattresses and too much grease in the food.

While Georgia is as fair a land as the Lord ever made, some of the remodeling done by man falls short of perfection. No place looks its best from the highway, particularly if the driver has posted a big bond for speeding and has indigestion from too many hush puppies at lunch. These minor items are made more serious by the fact that Georgia has had a bad press in the rest of the land for 10, these many years. It is fashionable for those who don't know us to dislike us, and to regard the state as a dark jungle of ignorance, evil and onerousness.

It doesn't take much to correct these false impressions, as the chamber found last fall. Then it took a group of travel editors from over the country on a swing through Georgia, and the visitors were impressed. They went home and wrote of our glories, and for all we know, a lot of tourists stopped over this winter who in the past fled down our highways under the protective cover of the night.

This trip will give the motor clubbers a sample of our variety. Beaches we have, and mountain lakes. We have fir and balsam and palms and hibiscus too, and all the great range of things between these extremes. The visitors will be shown waterfalls and swamps, industry and agriculture, and the kind of plantations many northerners think most southerners have. There will be meals distinguished for quantity and quality and entertainment until they are dizzy.

Georgia is a remarkable state, and often as unappreciated at home as it is abroad. Anybody born and brought up here finds other parts of the world rather pale; not only the colors of nature, but also the people and politicians. The old individualism still hangs on in Georgia, even in the cities, and gives the place a savor that other sections lack.

This flavor seems a little gamey to some when a cop pulls them in for driving 70 miles an hour through a school zone; when the hotel keeper forgets to change the linen for new guests, or when they overdo it in a greasy spoon that advertises "good eats."

Georgia has something for everybody, and everybody, even the semi-sacred tourist usually can find what he's looking for and often gets about what he deserves. Junkets like this pay off in a big way. Georgia is full of undiscovered good things, while our few debit items are much too well-known. Improved public relations is the answer, a thing we have been slow in learning.

There Were Four Who Didn't Forget

While Jesus was preaching to the crowd in Capernaum (Mark 2:1-12), someone began to tear away part of the roof. Then a bed was lowered from the roof down into the room where Jesus was. That is to me a thrilling part of this story. When the news got around that Jesus was in town, the people rushed to see and hear Him.

In Capernaum was one man who could not go because he was paralyzed. Most of the people forgot him but there were four men who didn't forget.

They took the time and made the effort to go and get this man and bring him to Jesus. I wish we knew the names of those four men. They are the kind of people who delight the heart of God. They not only wanted to see Jesus themselves, they also thought of someone to bring who otherwise could not have come.

Following in the footsteps of those four men is a vast company of consecrated people — those who help to build churches, teachers and workers in the Sunday School, those who sing in the choir, parents who teach their children to pray.

In every community there are those who would like to go to church but they have no way. Yet vast numbers of church members come with seats in their cars empty. One of the most effective ways to bring someone to Christ is through our prayers. Those four men could not heal their paralyzed friend, but they were willing to bring him to The One who could heal.

Now comes an important insight into our Lord's character. A lesser preacher would have resented the disturbance, but not He. He realized that people are more important than sermons. Though He spoke to great crowds, He could always see the individual need. God deals with us not in groups but one by one. So Jesus stopped His sermon and turned His full attention to this one man who needed help. Now comes the miracle of healing.

First, it was faith that opened the door to Christ's power. "When Jesus saw their faith," it says. "Until we express what faith we have, we cannot expect Him to use His power. Maybe the man on the bed did not have faith, but His friends did have it and Jesus accepted that."

Next, Matthew points out that Jesus' first words were, "Son, be of good cheer" (9:2). This particular man's trouble was his own fault. It was the result of his sins, but our Lord does not utter one word of condemnation. Instead Christ gives him hope and inspiration. No matter what our condition is, no matter what the cause, when we come to Christ we find a friendly and encouraging Saviour. Also, the first step in healing the man was to cure his sense of hopelessness.

Paris Stalls Bonn Arms Amendment

French Demand
Held Too Strict

By CLIFTON DANIEL

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution
BONN, Germany, March 24—A West German government spokesman rejected tonight France's latest conditions for approving the rearmament amendment to the Bonn Constitution. Bonn officials professed to be surprised and stunned by the conditions.

They learned from Paris yesterday that the amendment could not be sanctioned until West Germany formally signed the protocols to the European Defense Community treaty that France demanded and obtained last year.

The new French conditions were reported to have been conveyed to the West German Foreign Office by Andre Francois-Poncet, French high commissioner for Germany. He had a meeting yesterday with Herbert Blankenhorn, chief of the Bonn Foreign Office political department.

NOT WILLING

Tonight a spokesman of the Foreign Office said West Germany was not willing to meet France's demand. His statement was in stark contrast with the previous attitude of the Bonn government which usually has been conciliatory toward France.

The rearmament amendment, which specifies that West Germany may enter EDC and raise military forces, was enacted last week by the Bonn Parliament.

In anticipation of Parliament's action, the high commissioners of the United States, Britain and France reminded the Federal Government that under the military occupation law any changes in the Constitution required their express approval.

The United States and Britain were reported to be in favor of approving the amendment, which would allow West Germany to complete ratification of the six-nation defense community pact.

France had misgivings. It was considered risky to let West Germany have the clear constitutional right to rearm before the defense community, with its limitations on German military power, should take effect.

COMPROMISE

A compromise was reached among the three high commissioners and submitted to Georges Bidault, French foreign minister, for his assent. According to the compromise formula, the high commissioners would have approved the amendment, but with the proviso that the rearmament clause of the amendment should not come into force until the defense community treaty had been implemented by all six signatories.

Pending a reply from Paris, the high commissioners sent a note to the West German government yesterday promising early action on the amendment. In the meantime, France's new conditions were posed.

The protocols that France now wants signed were drawn up in Rome in February, 1953, by experts of the six defense community countries.

The protocols were initiated by the six delegations but not formally signed by cabinet ministers.

Blast, Fire Hit Building On Pryor St.

painter, was working in a building across the street when the explosion tore out the second story of the Baskette building.

"It sounded like the whole town had blown up," he said. "I ran outside. Just as I got to the street, the second story blew out. Fire started shooting up."

Firemen were thwarted at first in their efforts to get the trapped equipment from Station No. 4. When the blaze spread so rapidly, however, firemen manned the trucks and rammed the big trucks through the littered entrance and into position.

Due to the narrowness of Pryor street in front of the Baskette building, other firemen were forced to take up positions on Peachtree street where they had to direct streams across the block and onto the fire.

Some firemen said congestion in the area was a major factor in the lead which the fire gained.

At 1:10 a.m. the fire still had not been brought completely under control but firemen were making steady progress. They apparently had confined the fire to the Baskette building and had prevented spread to other structures.

MOSCOW IS SOLD OUT

Russians' Clothes Nicer, Not a Board To Iron On

By HARRISON E. SALISBURY

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution
MOSCOW, March 24—For the past 10 days it has been impossible to buy an ordinary ironing board in Moscow. Not at the great "Gum" department store on Red Square, not at the big Mostorg store on the Petrovka and not at any of the dozens of smaller household goods stores around the city.

This disappearance of ironing boards from Moscow's stores provides a revealing insight into both the success and shortcoming of the big Soviet consumer goods drive.

You cannot find an ironing board in all Moscow because of the success in providing the population with electric irons and, more important, because clothes are now nice enough so that both men and women are beginning to want to keep them pressed and neat.

At the same time, it is typical that the small shops that turn out ironing boards and the big factories that make a few as a sideline have failed to meet this sudden expansion in consumer demand.

Equally anomalous is the question of the price of ironing boards. An ordinary wooden ironing board, with the thinnest kind of padding and no legs—the kind you rest on two chairs—costs about 40 rubles ($10). That is exactly what you pay for the cheapest electric iron in Moscow's hardware stores. It is the same as the price for a pair of kapron (the Soviet version of nylon) stockings, twice the price of a rubber bath mat or half the price of a leather handbag.

A year ago you could buy an ironing board in any department or hardware store in Moscow. There is not much of an alternative between buying an iron and ironing board or going around with wrinkled trousers. Moscow does not have a big network of pressing establishments.

West Zone Reds Get Propaganda Millions

BONN, Germany, March 24—The Kremlin is giving the West German Communist Party more than $10 million a year for anti-Western propaganda activities, German security officials said today.

To press a man's suit costs 16 rubles, or $4. Forty-eight-hour cleaning costs 48 rubles, or $12. Ordinarily the cleaning of a suit takes a week and costs 28 rubles, or $7.

Thus, when the government put more and better looking suits and dresses on the market it simultaneously aroused a spontaneous demand for pressing and cleaning facilities. But in accordance with what a Marxist might call the law of the uneven development of consumer goods industries, products are not coming on the market with sufficient coordination to avoid shortages.

$300,000 Building for Girls School

State Welfare Director Alan Kemper said Wednesday that about $300,000 will be spent on a new building for the State Training School for Girls at Adamsville.

Construction of the building, to include facilities for classrooms, a gymnasium, auditorium and swimming pool, will follow a general cleaning up of existing facilities and beautification of grounds, he said.

Kemper said the $300,000 expenditure for a building at Adamsville will be between one-third and one-half of the Welfare Department's available money for capital improvements.

The department has between $600,000 and $900,000 available out of an annual appropriation of $1,000,000 for capital outlay.

MUST BE DIVIDED

This money, he said, must be divided between Adamsville, the three other training schools at Milledgeville, Augusta and Macon, the Gracewood school for mental defectives and the Georgia Factory for the Blind.

Kemper said neither the school at Adamsville nor the training school for Negro girls at Macon "is our greatest need."

"For instance," he said, "there are about 2,000 mentally defective children in the state, and we have 800 at Gracewood. We have a population of 11,300 at the Milledgeville State Hospital and it is increasing."

40 AT MACON

"On the other hand, we have about 45 girls at the Adamsville school and about 40 at the Macon school."

Also out of money available now, Kemper said, he hopes to build a new maximum security building for criminally insane at the Milledgeville State Hospital.

"We have to have a new criminal building," he said, "because you could cut your way out of the one we are using now with a pocket knife and besides it is one of our best treatment buildings and we need it for other patients."

Water Supply Conservation Study Urged

A move began here Wednesday to encourage agriculture, industry, utilities, sportsmen, and even bathers and lawn-growers to study the need for conserving Georgia's water supply.

A group of men whose chief interest has been soil conservation met at the Henry Grady Hotel to arouse interest in water conservation. They were members of the Georgia Association of Soil Conservation District Supervisors.

"In 1850 each Georgian consumed for all purposes only two gallons of water a day," R. M. Stiles of Cartersville, vice president of the group, said.

"Today, the consumption of water by utilities, industry, farmers and for all other purposes averages from 150 to 200 gallons a day per person. We must begin thinking of the future. We must consider whether we have adequate laws to conserve water so as to meet the needs 25 years from now."

C. E. Busby, water law consultant with the Soil Conservation Service in South Carolina, addressed the meeting discussing action being taken in South Carolina.

The soil supervisors will invite all agencies interested in the water use problem to meet this summer to decide what action should be taken. Robert Tisinger of Carrollton was named chairman of the group on arrangements.

Milk Board Plans Price Formula

The State Milk Control Board is going to change the method it uses for fixing milk prices—but don't figure on any price cuts.

The board voted Wednesday to set up a formula by which milk prices will be determined. But it did not approve a specific formula. That probably will come next month at the board's regular meeting.

The board rejected a petition of two Atlanta dairies to cut the price of milk sold in half-gallon paper containers. Southern Dairies and Irvindale asked permission to lower the price on this size and type container in order to increase consumption of milk, company officials said. They proposed to sell the half-gallon container at one-half cent cheaper than two quart containers.

"BIG FIRMS"

Milk Board Chairman Charlie Duncan said the request was turned down because it would give these two "big" firms a competitive advantage over "small" plants in Atlanta.

These two companies own the only two paper carton manufacturing machines in the state, Duncan said. The machines are costly, and there is a shortage of them, the chairman added.

Speaking of the new price formula being prepared by the board, Duncan said that no matter what system is used in fixing the price, no reduction is in sight.

"I can find absolutely no justification for a reduction," he said. "The price of feed is up, the price of labor is up and we have a surplus of only about 10 percent which is normal for this time of the year and it is all going into ice cream."

TWO METHODS

In an executive session, the board considered two formula methods of fixing prices to replace the current method. The board now takes into consideration various costs in connection with the production and marketing of milk and arbitrarily sets the price.

One of the methods considered was the Boston formula and the other a formula worked out by the Georgia Experiment Station. The board ordered a combination formula worked out from the two and submitted at the April meeting.

Duncan said there was less than 1/4 of a cent difference between the formula prices and the current milk prices in Georgia.

Medlock Gets 9th Election To VFW Post

Randolph Medlock has been elected to his ninth consecutive term as commander of Walter Ogletree VFW Post No. 5257 at Stone Mountain, a tenure believed to be a record for the veterans' organization in Georgia.

He has been the post's only commander since it was activated in March, 1946. Present membership is 134.

In addition to heading the Stone Mountain post, Medlock also is junior vice commander of the VFW's Department of Georgia, and has held various national and district offices.

One of the outstanding post projects conducted under his leadership was the conversion of the VFW's new $25,000 clubhouse into classrooms for pupils of the Stone Mountain Elementary School whose building was destroyed by fire last fall.

Other post-sponsored community activities included a white-way system for Stone Mountain, Christmas toy collection for needy children, promotion of a welfare fund for needy aged citizens and annual banquet honoring Stone Mountain High School athletic teams.

Other post officers named this week were Robert Redmond, senior vice commander; Howard Moon, junior vice commander; Sam Hewatt, quartermaster; Robert Holley, chaplain; Jack Pittard, surgeon; Lamar Bagwell, judge advocate, and Virgil Henderson and Rufus Foster, trustees.

Girl, 11, in Coma Since Yule Crash, Walks After Life Hope Was Denied

BREMERTON, Wash., March 24 (AP)—Ginger Gray went to sleep dreaming of Christmas and awoke to find spring in the air.

And the plucky 11-year-old Bremerton girl who wouldn't give up a last thin thread of life is learning again to walk and talk. She is doing it the hard way.

Ginger's story started last Christmas morning when two cars collided in a mountain pass. She awoke two months later in a Seattle hospital — blind, mute and paralyzed.

Her mother, Mrs. Ernest Gray, recalled the third night after the accident:

"A doctor walked up to me and said: 'She can't live. If she does, she will be either badly crippled or mentally retarded, but I don't expect either because I don't see how she can live.'"

Weeks of coma followed. Then Ginger began to emerge slowly from her world of darkness.

"She would make little sounds in her throat as she tried to talk," Mrs. Gray said. "When she was able to speak, the first thing she said was: 'What did I get for Christmas?' She was really happy when we told her she got the oil painting set she wanted."

A couple of weeks ago a doctor did a complete exploratory surgery which revealed, contrary to the original diagnosis, that no permanent brain damage had been done.

Ginger went for a little walk the other day and had to crawl back on her hands and knees.

As she came laboriously up the steps of her home, she smiled at her mother and said, in words that came with almost as much difficulty as her steps: "I — fell — down." Then she went to walk some more.

Boarding House Curb Approved

The Municipal Planning Board agreed tentatively Wednesday on a regulation prohibiting boarding and lodging houses in one and two-family home areas, as it continued to study Atlanta's proposed zoning ordinance.

Board Chairman Max Cuba indicated the board will be ready to hold public hearings on the proposed ordinance about April 15.

Under the proposed ordinance boarding houses would be discontinued in the residential areas two years after its adoption. They would continue in operation for five years on approval of the Aldermanic Board if two-thirds of property owners in the block and across the street petition the board.

PARKING SPACE
The board also tentatively agreed to sections that would require businesses in commercial areas, except downtown, to provide one parking space for every 600 square feet of building area.

Where land with no principal building on it is being put to a use that does not conform to surrounding zoning, the owner would be allowed one year to conform, by the terms of another section of the ordinance.

Another study meeting is scheduled Tuesday.

ACTION ON PETITIONS
Earlier Wednesday the planning board approved 11 petitions, rejected eight and held five for further study.

Advised were petitions affecting properties on Hopkins Street between Rodgia Street and Turman Avenue, SE; Lenox Road and Cheshire Bridge Road, NE; Gordon Road extension near Gordon Road, SW; Pryor Road, SW, and St. Johns Avenue; Turman Avenue, SE, near Jonesboro Road; Gordon Road, SW, and Florida Avenue, and two tracts on Simp-

Annual Tooth X-ray Cuts Dental Bills

Complete dental x-ray examinations every year, and limited ones every six months would simplify treatment of dental disturbances and thus result in financial savings for patients, a specialist in radiography said Wednesday.

Speaking at the closing meeting of the Thomas P. Hinman Dental Clinic, held at the City Auditorium, Dr. William E. Koch Jr., of St. Louis, Mo., said there is no reason to fear radiation from the number of x-rays he suggested.

"The amount of radium the patient would get from being x-rayed is not enough to cause cancer," he said.

Dr. Koch is a professor of clinical radiotics at Washington University School of Dentistry, and is associate professor of clinical radiotics at Washington University School of Medicine.

More than 800 dentists attended the dental clinic, the 42nd annual meeting of the Fifth District Dental Society.

Huff House Given Group; To Be Moved

Atlanta's Huff House, famous antebellum farm home, has been donated to the Georgia Educational Exchange by Mrs. W. W. Rushton, it was announced Wednesday.

Mrs. Rushton stipulated in the offer that the house be removed by April 10 from its location on Huff road in an industrial section where the Rushton Co. plans to erect a plant.

Mrs. William H. Weir, chairman of the GEE's historical committee, said plans are to transfer the house to the Atlanta Memorial Park, which lies between Northside Dr. and Howell Mill Rd., along Peachtree Creek. Mrs. Weir, who announced the donation, said Mayor Hartfield and several councilmen have unofficially agreed to this plan.

Huff House was used as headquarters by Union and Confederate troops during the War Between the States. The house remained in possession of the Huff family until shortly before Miss Cordelia Huff died early this year.

City Auto Tax Suggested For Street Improvement

Massell Named President Of Downtown Improvement Unit

By ALBERT RILEY

Members of the Central Atlanta Improvement Assn. elected Ben Massell president Wednesday and heard a suggestion that the city levy an automobile license tax to help finance needed street improvements.

George Goodwin, executive director of the CAIA, who made the suggestion, warned, however, that no amount of new expressways, street improvements and parking facilities will solve downtown traffic congestion unless more attention is paid to mass transit.

One prominent real estate developer replaced another at the helm of the CAIA as Massell succeeded John O. Chiles, who has served for two years as president of the organization of downtown property owners.

Declaring that an expandable tax system is needed to meet the expanding costs of local government in rapidly growing Atlanta, Goodwin said a city license of $5 or $10 a vehicle "would finance one to two million dollars worth of local street improvements annually."

ADEQUATE ACCESS

In his annual report to the CAIA, meeting at the Capital City Club, Goodwin said the association's most important approach to the job of protecting and promoting the $100 million "golden heart" of Atlanta is "the development and maintenance of adequate access to the area."

Among specific projects being pushed by the CAIA, Goodwin said, are:

1. Widening of Mitchell street from the Terminal Station to the West By-pass (Northside drive).
2. Construction of a new east-west thoroughfare under the viaducts and alongside the railroad from Bartow street to Central avenue.
3. Development of plans for an east-west expressway and other east-west facilities including the Hunter street viaduct and underpasses in the upper Peachtree area.

4. Continued creation of new parking facilities, with 1,000 new spaces on the way. Goodwin warned, however, that additional expressway, street and parking facilities "offer no real solution" to the traffic problem because surveys have shown "there will never be enough money or space" to accommodate all the automobiles heading downtown.

MISCONCEPTION

There has been a "serious misconception" of Atlanta's traffic problems, Goodwin said, with attempted solutions aimed at improving the movement of vehicles instead of the people who come downtown to shop, work and play. Noting that half the people who come downtown do so by transit, Goodwin said there has been a "serious omission of mass transportation" from all traffic planning.

Unless provisions are made to help the transit system replace worn out equipment and make more efficient use of streets, "only chaos and de-centralization can result," he warned.

The CAIA elected Jack Adair, Frank Malone, William T. Healey, Mills Lane Jr., A. G. Hendley and C. H. Candler Jr., as vice-presidents, Herman Jones as treasurer and Goodwin as director.

Sen. Moon Blames U.S. Rules For Welfare 'Mess' in Georgia

Administration of public welfare benefits "is in a mess" in Georgia because of stringent federal regulations, State Sen. Herbert Moon of Americus said here Wednesday.

Moon, a member of the State Senate's standing committee on public welfare, said that committee hopes to make recommendations to improve the program, particularly the administration of the old age assistance program.

The senator from Americus emphasized that he has no criticism of the administration of the program as far as State Welfare Director Alan Kemper and his staff are concerned.

But he said federal regulations cause many inequities and the state welfare department has to abide by the federal rules, since most of the money for welfare payments comes from the federal government.

He cited one instance in which he said an elderly widow was refused old age benefits because she had cashed in a small insurance policy in order to help pay the hospital bills of her son-in-law who had been supporting her for years. The federal regulations, Moon said, prevented the woman from receiving payments because she had cashed the policy.

FRIENDS NOW.

Angry Pair Joined by New Crash

An auto collision Sunday brought on a show of temper between an Atlanta grocer and an Austell mechanic.

And another auto collision Wednesday laid the groundwork for what promised to be a lasting friendship between the men.

The grocer, C. T. Everett of 1464 Fairbanks St., SW, and the mechanic, R. W. Bowers of Rt. 3, Austell, were involved in a collision Sunday at Lakewood Park.

ASKED TO APPEAR

Temper flared and Dets. N. W. Flanagan and R. A. Boone suggested that both men appear at police headquarters Wednesday afternoon to discuss the mishap.

Everett appeared on time. Bowers telephoned in to say that his wife was involved in an auto collision on Gordon road in Cobb County a few moments before and that she was being taken to Georgia Baptist Hospital.

"Tell him (Everett) we were both wrong and that I hope we can forget the whole thing and be friends the next time we meet," Bowers told Flanagan.

HE'S RIGHT

"He's exactly right," Everett said when informed of Bowers' request.

Everett and Bowers shook hands in the hospital waiting room, while Mrs. Bowers was hurried to the X-ray room.

Clayton Widow Wins 5th Verdict In Sanity Fight

An 81-year-old Clayton County widow's two-year fight to prove herself sane has again resulted in victory in Clayton Superior Court, Clerk P. K. Dixon said Wednesday.

A 12-man jury declared Mrs. Nora Smith Bell sane Tuesday afternoon—the fifth such verdict obtained by the childless widow and owner of an estate valued at between $25,000 and $30,000 since she began her fight for release from Milledgeville State Hospital in 1952.

Mrs. Bell has been opposed by her brother, John Low Smith, Mountain View real estate man, who also is her guardian. She charges that her brother obtained a lunacy warrant against her after she wrote him a letter in 1947 informing him that she had excluded all her relatives from her will.

Wells Reports on Libya, Takes Capital FOA Job

WASHINGTON, March 24—After spending a year in Libya as director of education for the Foreign Operations Administration, Dr. Guy H. Wells, former president of the Georgia State College for Women at Milledgeville, has returned to Washington for temporary duty with the government agency.

The Georgia educator, who has been working under the FOA point 4 program, had planned to remain on his foreign assignment for a longer period but was required to return to the United States because of the illness of his wife. Since getting back, Mrs. Wells has undergone major surgery and is convalescing at their Washington home.

At a meeting with Georgia delegation members at the capital today Dr. Wells gave a report on his mission to Libya and praised the point 4 program as one of the most valuable phases of foreign operations administration and the "only and the cheapest way to beat communism."

Dr. Wells was sent to Libya a little over a year ago by Harold Stassen, head of the FOA. While there he directed the building of the first university in the North African country. Making his headquarters at Benghazi, he had a staff of some forty people working under him.

He told Georgia delegation members that the chief problems in Libya are health, education and food production.

Dr. Wells, who was head of the Georgia State College for Women for 19 years and who is now on leave from the institution, said that he planned to remain on duty as a consultant with the FOA for a time and then return to Georgia.

He was killed in action 23 days later.

Cpl. Phillips' father, W. M. Phillips, lives at 7 Brown Mill Rd., SE. His sisters are Mrs. Martha Lyn Campbell of Hapeville and Mrs. Mary Lee Nolan of Welcome All community in Fulton County.

WITHOUT THIS VITAL MOISTURE HUMAN HAIR CAN "DIE" OF THIRST!

Amazing before-and-after tests prove to Dermatologists that Charles Antell Formula 9, by Helping Replace Moisture, Restores "Life," Lustre, Manageability, Curl-Tendency, makes Drab, Dry, Dehydrated Hair Look Livelier, Overnight.

Hair owes its healthy, handsome appearance, its "life," strength and manageability to the fact that it contains and retains as much as 80% moisture that, normally, is "married" to the hair by the scalp's natural oils. Because this moisture can evaporate; because without moisture human hair can "die" of thirst, Charles Antell created Formula 9, with its concentrated, super-refined, anhydrous lanolin. For super-refined, anhydrous lanolin contains the same beneficial, moisture-loving substances natural oils contain, and absorb or retains up to 80% of its own weight in moisture.

HUMAN HAIR IS SEXLESS

No ordinary hair dressing made offers like the good grooming and hair "life" qualities found in Charles Antell's Formula 9. Because hair is sexless, Charles Antell's Formula 9 is equally effective for men and women...so effective that Charles Antell's Formula 9 is today, America's number one product for the care of the scalp and hair, with men and with women.

Slaying, Suicide Ruled in Deaths

BAGDAD, Fla., March 24 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Damon Mock, Bagdad, were found shot to death in the woods about two miles south-west of this northwest Florida town yesterday. They had been missing since Sunday.

Judge William Bonifay ruled that Mock shot his wife and then himself. State Atty. Ed Wicke said Mrs. Mock, about 42, was found dead in a car parked on a woods road.

and her husband, about 45, was found a short distance away with a shotgun. He said Mock had written a letter to his first wife saying he was unhappy with Mrs. Mock and had decided to shoot her and himself.

Harold Morris Announces for Farm Chief

Constitution State News Service DOUGLASVILLE, March 24—Harold M. Morris, veteran of World War II and the Korean conflict and a former vocational agriculture teacher here, Wednesday announced he will be a candidate for Georgia Commissioner of Agriculture.

He said he would favor combining the Department of Forestry and Agriculture. He also favors working out an agreement on milk marketing that would be agreeable to producers and consumers.

Morris said he would oppose using the Farmers' Market Bulletin as a personal political organ. If elected, he said, he would bring about closer cooperation between the Department of Agriculture and the State Extension Service and University System.

Ex-Cracker Crone To Hurl for Braves

Wyatt Lists Atlanta Lineup
For Friday Night Battle

There may be more familiar faces in the Milwaukee lineup than in Atlanta's this weekend, according to tentative starting rosters released Wednesday by the Braves and Crackers for their three-day exhibition series.

Third baseman Vern Petty is the only Atlanta player listed as a sure starter who spent the season with the Crackers in 1953. Jim Solt, an alternate catching choice with Ted Laguna, was here in 1952.

All the others are almost complete strangers to Ponce de Leon fans.

The Braves, meanwhile, list ex-Cracker Eddie Mathews as third base with Jack Dittmer, who also prepped here,

Mathews' Leg Bothering Him, May Rest Awhile

BRADENTON, Fla., March 24 (AP)—Slugging Ed Mathews of the Milwaukee Braves came up with a sore leg today and was excused from making the trip to Lakeland for an exhibition against Detroit.

It's expected that Mathews will be out of the lineup for several days. Andy Pafko and Del Crandall also stayed behind to nurse minor ailments.

SW DeKalb Tops Murphy, 11-7

Windsor Collier and Billy Mitchell split the mound chores as Southwest DeKalb's Panthers stopped Murphy High School, 11-7, in a practice baseball game Wednesday.

Gilbert Miller, Mike Duke and Tommy Lewis were the big stickmen for the winners with two hits each. Lewis and Duke smashed home runs to aid the Panthers in their first start of the year.

Pope Mound Stint Impressive But Crackers Lose, 15-11

Continued From Page 16 errors by John Turco and Billy Porter opened the gates for three unearned Tulsa runs. The Oilers then ruffled Pope for two legitimate markers in the fifth, mixing a pair of walks with Frank Robinson's double and a fly.

In the next inning, Humberto Robinson virtually erased his chances for wearing an Atlanta uniform when he surrendered two hits, hit one batsman and issued a walk. Tulsa netted only one run to tie the score 6-6, but Wyatt had seen all he wanted to see of Robinson and brought on Lopez in the seventh. Lopez fared no better and was jarred for two markers on a trio of singles. Meanwhile, the Crackers didn't score again until Jerry Blackburn, the $35,000 bonus from Kannapolis, N.C., took over. Blackburn, who came out of the Army some 50 pounds overweight, was plucked for two runs in the eighth on a walk and Jack Cerin's double. He was rattled for three more runs in the ninth and the Crackers owned a 10-8 lead. Paul Cave, who succeeded Lopez, didn't preserve the lead long, dropping two runs when Tulsa wrapped Mickey Flint's single and double by Carl Paylor around a walk.

It looked as though the Crackers had succeeded in beating

Brittin, Trowbridge To Face Tulsa Today

DOUGLAS, Ga., March 24—Jack Brittin, who stumbled in his first outing against Toledo, gets another chance against Tulsa here Thursday in the final game before the Crackers come home. Bob Trowbridge, the Army strike-out king, probably will be the other hurler.

Ernie White, former St. Louis Cardinal pitcher and now manager of Cincinnati's Columbia farm, was an onlooker at Wednesday's game. White's club is training here with Tulsa. . . . Buck Bradberry, the former Murphy High and Auburn hurler, is trying to land a job on the Columbia staff. . . . Next addition to the Cracker family probably will be outfielder Walt Peterson, a former University of Texas star who has been training with the Braves at Bradenton. . . . Frank Torre, playing his first game for the Crackers, collected a double and a single and reached first twice more when he was walked and hit by a pitch. . . . Crackers struck five doubles Wednesday, giving them a total of 10 in two games. . . . Wyatt and Cracker vice president Jasper

Undeclared Jackson and Gordon Meet

By BILL JAUS

Special to The Constitution CAMP GORDON, March 24—Ft. Jackson and Camp Gordon, the only two teams remaining undefeated, will meet Thursday afternoon in the Third Army basketball tournament here.

Jackson defeated Camp Rucker, 101-88, and Gordon fought to an 85-78 win over Ft. Benning in two rugged games Wednesday afternoon. It was the first loss for Rucker and Benning in the double elimination tournament.

Neild Gordon and Hugh Shuttlesworth scored 22 points apiece to pace Jackson's third straight victory and a third in which the Arrows scored more than 100 points.

The hard-fought game produced 60 personal fouls—30 on each team—and three players fouled out.

O'Neill Weaver scored 25 and Bill Regalado 20 for Rucker.

Camp Gordon was hard-pressed by a rugged Benning team but rallied in the second half. A total of 50 fouls were called, 33 on Benning.

Gordon led by only 39-37 at the half but Jim O'Brien scored 20 in the second half—and five consecutive baskets in the third quarter—to spark the Ramblers to their third straight victory.

O'Brien scored 29 in all, high for both teams.

In morning games Red Stone Arsenal eliminated Fort McPherson, 73-60, and Fort McClellan ousted Camp Stewart, 87-72. Red Stone's high man was Frank Calsbeek with 16, the same as Fort Mac's Jim Graham.

Dick Wright had 28 points for McClellan while Wes Sabourin got 25 to pace Stewart.

HOGAN DUE THURSDAY

More Money, Prizes Offered at Masters

By BERT PRATHER

Players in this year's Masters golf tournament, scheduled for April 8-11 over Augusta National Golf Club's picturesque layout, will be shooting for five new trophies and possibly the largest purse in the 18-year history of the tourney.

Tournament chairman Cliff Roberts, in his latest release, advises that in addition to the silver plaque and gold medal to the winner, silver medal to the runner-up and silver-gold cup to the low amateur, the following additional trophies will be put in competition this year:

1. Gold medal to low amateur.

2. Silver medal to amateur runner-up.

3. Engraved crystal vases to the players who turn in the lowest scores each of the four days. Based on previous records, it is expected that, because of ties, about six vases will be awarded each year.

4. To the player who scores a hole-in-one, an engraved crystal cup. There have been only four aces scored in past Masters.

5. To the player who scores an eagle—an engraved crystal goblet. The field scored 18 eagles in 1953.

If the attendance permits, the cash payoff to the professional may be upped just as it has in the past few years.

Ben Hogan, Masters, the defending champion, who played in the Seminole Pro-Am at Palm Beach, Fla., Wednesday, finishing in a tie for sixth, left after the tournament and was due to take his first practice shot at Augusta National Thursday. The little man will know every nook and cranny of the course before teeing off time April 8.

Titleholders champion Louise Suggs will get back into action Friday at Spartanburg, S.C., when she faces her pro colleagues and such amateurs standouts as Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasville and Joyce Ziske of Waterford, Wis., the second Peach Blossom-Betsy Rawls 54-hole tournament. The little Atlanta pro is defending in the tournament.

Following this tournament, the LPGA tour will move into Carrollton's Sunset Hills Country Club for the annual Carrollton Women's Open, April 24.

Norkus Bests Nardico By Unanimous Decision

Hammers 7th Ranked Danny
Before 4,000 in Miami Beach

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 24 (AP)—Charley Norkus, a crude slugger from Jersey City, hammered out a unanimous decision over tough Danny Nardico of Tampa tonight in a brutal 10-rounder at Miami Beach Auditorium before more than 4,000 fans.

Norkus praised Nardico's courage, disclosing that twice during the fight when he had Danny apparently on the verge of a knock-out, the Tampa toughie kept growling to him to "come on and fight."

Nardico charged Norkus at the opening bell, but the 24-year-old Jersey City heavyweight rocked him with a hard overhead right to the head. He nailed Danny with several stiff lefts and late in the round a right cross by Norkus was partially blocked but still had enough power behind it to knock Danny to one knee. Nardico grabbed a rope and pulled himself back up immediately.

Neither fighter went down for a count, but the battle was as savage and bloody as the eight-knockdown brawl the two men staged here last Jan. 20.

Referee Jimmy Peerless gave Norkus 98 points to 96 for Nardico. Judge Stu Winston saw it 98-91 and Judge Morris Feingold, 97-91.

Norkus, who flattened Nardico six times to win by a technical knockout in the ninth round in January, weighed 197½. Danny weighed 180½.

Nardico, the seventh-ranking light heavyweight, declared through puffed lips in his dressing room that Norkus "is just too tough. I had to give too much weight."

His trainer, Bill Gore, said "We tried something and learned our lesson. Danny will stay in the light-heavyweight divisions from now on."

State Tenpin Tourney Greet 60 Teams Here

By JIMMY MANN

The duckpin stars have had their day for a while and beginning Saturday afternoon at the Buckhead Alleys the tenpin artists take over in the Georgia State Tournament which is slated to run through two weekends.

State association vice president and publicity man, Jim Adams announced that close to 60 teams from Georgia and several from South Carolina will invade Atlanta during the event.

This Saturday's action has been set aside for team competition. Then Sunday the keggers will square off in singles and doubles competition. The following week will follow the same pattern. Saturday for the teams and Sunday for singles and doubles.

Adams has two important things he wants the members of the Atlanta and Georgia associations to remember. This Friday night the local group meets at the Knights of Columbus Club to complete plans for the tournament and Sunday morning, the fourth, the state association meets to select a site for the 1955 meeting.

Jack Lee, Fred Priest, Hugh Jackson, Grace Baxter and Marjorie Holt compose the Sinclair League-leading Rockets team. But only Lee has established any loop marks. He is high-average roller with 100. Ann Satterfield owns both the high average, 87, and the high game, 23. Bill McClure has registered the high game for the men with 142. . . . Clark Hill Pact Ready For Signing

By BILL ALLEN

The moment that Georgians and South Carolinians have been waiting for ever since Clark Hill Reservoir was constructed on the Savannah River will arrive at noon next Tuesday, when the two states sign a reciprocal fishing license agreement at Lincolnton.

The ceremony will be held at G.M. "Bear" Elam's Oak Creek fishing camp at Lincolnton with both states' enforcement staffs present for a briefing, according to Georgia Game and Fish Chief Fulton Lovell.

The agreement will go into force then—just after noon, and licensed anglers may roam at will on either bank of the sprawling inland ocean that has been for the past 12 months the hottest spot in the south-east for bass and crappie seekers.

The only provision that must be complied with is that Georgia children over 12 must buy a Georgia license to fish in South Carolina. Children under 16 may fish without licenses in the Georgia area of the lake, as in other portions of the state.

Prospects Improve at Oglethorpe

A better-than-average pitching staff, good, fast infield and a big, powerful outfield.

No, not the Yankees or Dodgers—not even the Braves or Cards—it's the 1954 outlook for the Oglethorpe University Petrels.

Coach Jim Bush likes what he has seen on the practice field.

Bush has yet to see a better small-college hurler than Johnny Green, 6-2, 180-pound right-hander from Summerville. To go along with Green the Petrels boast lefties, Warren Shore, New York City, and Carl Simmons, an all-New Jersey high schooler, who will also patrol the outfield when he isn't flinging.

Chamblee High School provides the major portion of Bush's infield. From the Bulldogs' prep past come Gene Hunter, first base; Ronnie Clayton, third base; Dick Eason, second base, and Bob Epps, a utility catcher.

Jimmy Silvins and Virgil Milton will alternate at shortstop and Bill Wehnt, a transfer from Mercer, will do the catching with Epps.

Discarding injury, Bush will never be without a left fielder. He plans to use Green or Simmons when either is not on the mound. Rockmart's Bill Cummings has the center field spot and Mike Murphy is in left.

Milt Bauman, Joe White and Sam Edleman are other outfielders on the roster. —MANN.

Prescription for Heartache Stresses Physical Activity

This is the eleventh installment from Dr. Norman Vincent Peale's book, "The Power of Positive Thinking," which has topped the non-fiction best-seller list for the past 72 weeks.

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE
CHAPTER XI

"Please give me a prescription for heartache."

This curious and rather pathetic request was made by a man who had been informed by his doctor that the feelings of disability of which he complained were not of a physical nature. His trouble lay in an inability to rise above sorrow. He was suffering from "an ache in his personality" as a result of grief.

MEDICAL TERMINOLOGY

His doctor advised him to secure spiritual consultation and treatment. So, continuing to use the terminology of medicine, he repeated his question, "Is there a spiritual prescription which will reduce my constant inner suffering? I realize that sorrow comes to everyone and I should be able to meet it the same as others. I have tried my best but find no peace." Again he asked with a sad, slow smile, "Give me a prescription for heartache."

There is indeed a "prescription" for heartache. One element in the prescription is physical activity. The sufferer must avoid the temptation to sit and brood. A sensible program which substitutes physical activity for fruitless brooding reduces the strain in the area of the mind where we reflect, philosophize and suffer mental pain. Muscular activity utilizes another part of the brain and therefore shifts the strain and gives relief.

An old country lawyer who had a sound philosophy and much wisdom told a sorrowing woman that the best medicine for a broken heart is "to take a scrubbing brush and get down on your knees and go to work. The best medicine for a man," he declared, "is to get an ax and chop wood until physically tired." While this is not guaranteed to be a complete cure for heartache, yet it does tend to mitigate such suffering.

ESCAPE DEFEATISM

Whatever the character of your heartache, one of the first steps is to resolve to escape from any defeatist situation which may have been created around you, even though it is difficult to do so, and return once again to the normal course of your life. Get back into the main stream of life's activities. Take up your old associations. Form new ones. Get busy walking, riding, swimming, playing—get the blood coursing through your system. Lose yourself in some worthwhile project. Fill your days with creative activity and emphasize the physical aspect of activity. Employ healthy, mind-relieving busyness, but be sure that it is of a worthwhile and constructive nature. Superficial escapism through feverish activity merely deadens pain temporarily and does not heal, as, for example, parties and drinking.

An excellent and normal release from heartache is to give way to grief. There is a foolish point of view current today that one should not show grief, that it is not proper to cry or express oneself through the natural mechanism of tears and sobbing. This is a denial of the law of nature. It is natural to cry when pain or sorrow comes. It is relief mechanism provided in the body by Almighty God and should be used.

To restrain grief, to inhibit it, to bottle it up, is to fail to use one of God's means for eliminating the pressure of sorrow. Like every other function of the human body and nervous system, this must be controlled, but it should not be denied altogether. A good cry by either man or woman is a release from heartache. I should warn, however, that this mechanism should not be used unduly nor allowed to become a habitual process. Should that happen, it partakes

Asks GI Farm Loans Be Raised to $7,500

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—Rep. Mills (D-Ark) proposed today that Congress increase to $7,500 the loan guarantee available to war veterans seeking to buy farms. A veteran seeking a GI loan for purchase of a farm now can get a federal guarantee up to only $5,000. A veteran buying a home in town can get a $7,500 loan.

of the nature of abnormal grief and could become a psychosis. Unrestraint of any kind should not be allowed.

VERY DIFFICULT

I receive many letters from people whose loved ones have died. They tell me that it is very difficult for them to go to the same places they were in the habit of frequenting together or to be with the same people with whom they associated as a couple or as a family. Therefore they avoid the old-time places and friends.

I regard this as a serious mistake. A secret of curing heartache is to be as normal and natural as possible. This does not imply disloyalty or indifference. This policy is important in avoiding a state of abnormal grief. Normal sorrow is a natural process and its normality is evidenced by the ability of the individual to return to his usual pursuits and responsibilities and continue therein as formerly.

The deeper remedy for heartache, of course, is the curative comfort supplied by trust in God. Inevitably the basic prescription for heartache is to turn to God in an attitude of faith and empty the mind and heart to Him. Perseverance in the act of spiritual self-emptying will finally bring healing to the broken heart. This generation, which has suffered fully as much if not more heartache than people in preceding eras, needs to relearn that which the wisest men of all time have known, namely that there is no healing of the pain suffered by humanity except through the benign ministrations of faith.

One of the greatest souls of the ages was Brother Lawrence, who said, "If in this life we would know the serene peace of Paradise, we must school ourselves in familiar, humble and loving converse with God." It is not advisable to attempt to carry the burden of sorrow and mental pain without Divine help, for its weight is more than the personality can bear. The simplest and most effective of all prescriptions for heartache is to practice the presence of God. This will soothe the ache in your heart and ultimately heal the wound. Men and women who have experienced great tragedy tell us that this prescription is effective.

Another profoundly curative element in the prescription for heartache is to gain a sound and satisfying philosophy of life and death and deathlessness. For my part, when I gained the unshakable belief that there is no death, that all life is indivisible, that the here and hereafter are one, that time and eternity are inseparable, that this is one unobstructed universe, then I found the most satisfying and convincing philosophy of my entire life.

Nelms Stays At Helm of Blind School

F. G. Nelms probably will remain as superintendent of the State Academy for the Blind in Macon for the remainder of the present term, State School Superintendent M. D. Collins said Wednesday.

Following a controversy over the whipping of a 12-year-old partially blind boy at the school, Nelms and Principal Robert Long requested transfers to other duties in the state department of education.

Collins said they would be shifted to the Vocational Education Division, and Long has been sent to Albany as a counselor.

Nelms was to remain at the school until a successor could be selected, Collins said Wednesday he still was attempting to locate a qualified man for the job.

He added, however, that a number of parents who have children at the school have asked that Nelms remain through the present term and he probably will not be replaced before the end of the term.

Radio Faces Bright Years, Clinic Told

The radio industry is in better condition now than ever before—despite the competition of television—and has a bright future, a program clinic for Georgia broadcasters was told Wednesday at the Dinkler Plaza Hotel.

Speakers at the clinic, which was sponsored by the Georgia Association of Broadcasters and Broadcast Music Inc. said radio now enjoys an all-time high in listener interest.

L. H. Christian, general manager of Station WRFC, Athens, said radio programs are emphasizing music, sports and news to compete with television. He said stations also are increasing their popularity by devoting more time to local programs and "establishing a local personality."

Walter H. Flint, program director of WGPC, Albany, pointed out that radio also is stressing concert music. He said radio stations, on the average, devote six hours and 40 minutes a week to classical music.

Other speakers pointed out that "radio is the one medium which you can enjoy while doing something else."

Gas Tax Collections Show $373,166 Gain

Georgia's gasoline tax collections this month showed an increase of $373,166 over March a year ago, State Revenue Commissioner Charles D. Redwine disclosed Wednesday.

Redwine said this month's collections totaled $4,719,170 as compared with $4,346,004 in March of 1953.

The pliability of a political poll is discussed in an editorial on Page 4.

A DRESS TO REMEMBER WHEN THE HONEYMOON'S OVER
Leonard Arkin's gown with deep sweetheart neckline

New Styles Brighten Trousseau

By AGNES McCARTY

Next to the bridegroom there's nothing more important to a girl's honeymoon than her trousseau.

A new bride's wardrobe should be ultrafeminine and full of bright, gay clothes. Her last fling before facing the budget.

Although tradition dictates the wedding gown, a going away suit is as much a matter of personal choice as a husband.

For warm climates a cotton costume in coffee and white check with a stitched fan pleated skirt is perfect. If the bride plans to work this suit will provide consolation when the honeymoon's over. White linen cuffs and self bow trim disguise its tailored versatility. Price is around $39.

Top designer, Leonard Arkin, also offers a pure silk in black and white polka dot print that can be worn for daytime. The fitted torso buttons down to the hipline where the skirt flounces out in shirred fullness. White linen accents the collar. Price is about $49.

Something to remember after a newlywed's deeply involved with menus and laundry lists is a pewter blue and white polka dot dress with a deep sweetheart neckline collared and inserted with folded white organdy. Skirt has molded hips and flares gracefully. Price is near $49.

All fashions are available in Atlanta. For shopping information call WA. 5650, ext. 397.

Co-Workers Who Smoke Create Problem for Spinster

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: We are two sisters, single and in our forties. While neither of us is attractive, still we are useful, and, we hope, necessary and human. I am writing to you about my sister's welfare.

Julia works in a large office where there are about 70 men and 30 women. My sister is one of those people who always considers others first, herself last.

The problem is this: Smoking makes Julia feel ill; but she never lets outsiders know it. At her office she is surrounded by persons who are smoking all day long. One man who hates tobacco fumes angrily opens the windows to freshen the air, which put Julia in a draft; and now she has a terrific cold.

She carries five coworkers home in her car each night; and they are smoking all the while. Rather than lose her friends, Julia puts up with this unceasing irritation; but it really is hurting her health and feelings.

When people are made ill by smoking, consideration should be shown them, I feel; but Julia is fearful of offending these associates who are slaves to their appetites. Please tell me what can be done? V. F.

DEAR V. F.: Your sister suffers not so much from tobacco fumes, or from coworkers' impositions, as from a too-narrow life—a poverty of interests. For this reason her conversation inside the family consists of complaints. She may think her fret is aroused by the persons she criticizes; but actually it is a muffled protest against the tedium of her mousy existence. She feels frustrated, dissatisfied, and unable to help herself.

There is no ready made solution of the difficulty she has with smoke. She cannot hope to escape habitual smokers in most public places and social gatherings.

If the office atmosphere sickens her, she ought to make the fact known to her supervisor and suggest that her desk be placed "in the clear." If this hygienic consideration is denied, she might change jobs, to find a better ventilated situation. In her own car, she may assign smokers to the back seat, ask them to open the windows a crack, and explain that she's trying to work out a fair compromise between their "weakness" and hers—because smoky air makes her dizzy, etc. M. H.

Celestine Sibley Deserving of A Precious Gift

Maybe you don't know Joey but you must remember hearing about her. She was the little Filipino woman who did so much for our forces in the Japanese-held Philippine Islands during World War II.

She was decorated by our government with the Medal of Freedom with silver palm, the highest award for war service by a civilian. Cardinal Spellman presented to her a medallion in recognition of "Christian fortitude and concern for fellow sufferers."

She smuggled food to starving Filipino and American prisoners of war. She got messages and medicine to them and took back maps of enemy fortifications for our Air Force. She was, as she herself smilingly insisted, "just a little errand boy" for courageous bands of guerrillas working with American forces.

The touching story of this little woman has been told many times wherever American G.I.s who were in the Philippines meet to rehash tales of the war. Thomas M. Johnson, writing three or four years ago, told it perhaps best of all in a Reader's Digest piece called "Joey's Quiet War."

"Across the battlefields north of Manila trudged a little Filipino woman bearing a knapsack on her bent shoulders. Several Japanese soldiers started to question her. Some of them seeing her bloated, scarred, brown face, understood and shrank back. To others she bared her chest and showed her sores. When she uttered the one word, 'Leprosy,' no sentry persisted, none examined the knapsack, none found out that—taped on her back—she carried a map of the Japanese defenses north of Manila."

Joey did have leprosy—more properly called Hansen's disease today. She is at this moment under treatment at the United States hospital at Carville, La., for the disease. But she did not let it deter her. In fact, she actually used it during the desperate days of the war in the Philippines to get a map which accurately indicated mine fields to the advancing United States troops and thereby saved hundreds of American lives. The guerrillas had a corrected map and they knew the Americans needed it but how to get it through to the Thirty-Seventh Division Headquarters through Japanese guards?

A woman atoot, a sad little shabby woman with ugly sores on her face but a fearless heart, could do it. They asked Joey and she answered: "Just tell me where to go."

Now because of heartless red tape America is once more telling Joey where to go—and it is a shameful thing. She has overstayed her temporary visitor's permit to receive treatment at Carville, treatment which is saving her life and restoring her to usefulness. But immigration laws decree that she must now leave the country she worked so valiantly to help. She must be deported.

A great many of her friends in this country are trying to help Joey. The American Legion passed a resolution at its national convention last August, opposing her deportation. The Louisiana Business and Professional Women's Clubs have done the same.

Col. George H. Rarey, of 120 Mount Vernon Dr., Decatur, a retired Army officer, is one of many Georgians interested in Joey. They know her story and want to see the government which gave her its highest award give her something infinitely more precious—American citizenship. A bill is now pending in the House of Representatives to give her citizenship.

If you want to help Joey you can ask your congressman to support that measure—HR 2412. It seems a fair enough return on her great investment in our land.

Latch String Opens Door To History

By DOTY LUNDY

The latch string a pioneer farm wife put out as a symbol of hospitality or to accommodate an errant husband was probably spun from a flaxen rope. This was the second phase in the evolution of lockmaking in America—following the time when a lock was simply a device for keeping out the elements.

Such bits of Early Americana are revealed in a collection recently purchased by a national lock manufacturing company from Mrs. Theodore L. Bailey of Harriman, N.Y. The lot of over 250 locks and latches was on exhibit at the 10th annual National Antiques Show at Madison Square Garden, New York, last week.

RUN RIFE

The casual observer as well as the history student could let his imagination run rife over the batch of implements for keeping folks in or out.

Wooden restraining devices from Colonial times would yield under a whispered "Abracadabra." Other items on exhibit are mammoth prison locks used in New England during Washington's administration and a 13th century European slave leg lock. Evidently the first locksmiths in America were blacksmiths, who fashioned locking devices for all needs out of metal ornaments, and farmers, who made their own. These early artisans had a knowledge of geometry and a watchmaker's precision in making, by hand, springs and screws.

BEAR SMITH'S MARK
Following the period when locks were designed for keeping out a gust or gale, America became more sophisticated. Trade increased and neighbors lived close enough to borrow that cup of sugar. More complicated mechanisms were needed. Later when urban societies developed, the master's horses wore fancy trappings and locks were embellished with frills and furbelows.

DINNER TIME STREAMLINED AT CLUBHOUSE

The real lock enthusiast can spot a Pennsylvania Dutch latch in the collection, or a Swedish model. English imports bear the mark of the smith. The French migration from Canada to the middle west is obvious in the 300-year-old convent latch used by a French sisterhood.

Smallest locks in the collection are tiny mechanisms to secure a lady's reticule while a great prison lock requires an eight-inch metal key to operate. One large brass-rim lock which explodes cartridges when tampered with by an interloper was used during the big business boom in the East.

Club House Gets $2,000 Trimmings

By JEAN ROONEY,
Constitution Staff Writer
ELLIJAY, March 24—Ellijay homemakers can now qualify as high financiers.

They are raising $2,000 in a short 12 months, a noble undertaking in any club treasurer's books.

The fruit of the women's capitalistic endeavors will be a cozier community clubhouse in the North Georgia mountain town. Start of the money-making by the 60-member Ellijay Woman's Club was in September, 1953. Today, they have less than $600 to go.

"And we'll finish that off by next September," Mrs. J. S. Tankersley, club president, confidently reports.

FORGED AHEAD

Using their good credit rating, the women have forged ahead with their redecorating plans.

Pine paneling the interior of the clubhouse was step one, with veteran club members Mrs. E. T. Hudson and Mrs. Ray Birdsall each supervising the placing of each shiny panel.

Draperies for the long, many-windowed main room came next. Seventy yards of bright, floral fabric was purchased and Mrs. M. A. Cox offered to be seamstress.

Good cooks all, the women made big plans for the clubhouse kitchen. They added a second stove, additional cabinets and table-top space.

And they bought six banquet tables with washable tops, to streamline cleaning up after dinner parties in the future.

PAY OFF QUICKLY

"This investment will pay off quickly," Mrs. Tankersley explained. "We make most of our budget by serving suppers to civic meetings."

Modernizing the club's rest-rooms was the final step in the face-lifting program.

In the spot of honor in the newly decorated clubhouse is an ebony gavel. The Ellijay women

War of Roses Sweepstakes Decision Challenged

By YOLANDE GWIN

An emergency called meeting to settle a year's claim on a handsome silver loving cup ended in an unprecedented truce agreement Wednesday as Atlanta Flower Show officials gave two garden clubs equal billing on the sweepstakes trophy.

The two clubs, The Cherokee and The Rose, both rang up 18 points (blue ribbons to you) in the Association's annual show.

SILVER TROPHY DISPLAYED
First day visitors at the event presented this year as "The Narcissus Show, Harbingers of Spring Keyed to Modern Living" saw the table of silver trophies and there right in the center was the largest of all—the perpetual silver loving cup (given in 1938 by Mrs. James D. Robinson, of the Peachtree Garden Club) with the big card reading: "The Rose Garden Club—1954 sweepstakes winner."

Tuesday night some of the Cherokee Garden Club members started thinking about all their blue ribbons—and the result was the same. Both had 18 points.

So what else could the Cherokee Garden Club president, Miss Helen McDuffie, but ask for a recount just for the record?

MEETING CALLED

That's why the Association president, Mrs. Cliff Sauls, called the meeting Wednesday.

"It's the first time in the history of the association that anything like this has happened," she said Wednesday. "It's also the first time that there will be two club names engraved on the cup."

And the cup? Oh, it will be replaced in its customary perch in a glass case in the Atlanta Garden Center. Like a child of divorced parents, each will claim it as their own six months out of the year.

Annie Lou Hardy Social Gaiety Revolves Around Visiting Trio

Much of the social gaiety this week revolves around a trio of popular visitors, Miss Helen Sobel of New York, Mrs. Eugene L. Brine of Portsmouth, Ohio, and Mrs. Frank Cone of Sioux City, Iowa.

Miss Sobel arrived Tuesday with Mrs. Wilkinson Wagar from New Orleans, where these two bridge experts participated in the 10th annual Mid-South Bridge Conference, in which Atlanta's Henry Chanin was winner in the team-of-four play. She is being delightfully entertained during a brief visit at Mrs. Wagar's Peachtree street residence.

Mrs. Brine is the guest of her long-time friend, Mrs. Paine Saffarans on Peachtree Battle avenue, having arrived Wednesday for a brief visit. The pair met when both were stationed at Ft. Benning, and they were together again at Schofield Barracks in Hawaii.

Mrs. Cone, whom Atlantans remember from her visit here two years ago, is again the guest of Mrs. Hayden C. Jones Sr. on Peachtree road. She arrived on Monday, and on Tuesday she shared honors with Mrs. Carroll Griffin, who leaves soon for a round-the-world trip, at the cocktail party at which Mr. and Mrs. Jones were hosts.

Mrs. Cone will spend next week with Mrs. J. E. McMillan at her home on the Marietta highway.

THE THIRD DAUGHTER born March 24 to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Jones of Dalton has been named Betty Bardley for her maternal aunt, Mrs. Charles F. Hunt, who is now in Korea with the Red Cross. Mrs. Jones is the former Peggy Dutton of Atlanta.

MRS. JOSEPH RATTERREE and her brother, Lt. Ryburn Clay Jr., U.S. Army, are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ryburn Clay, at Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Lt. Clay is on leave after a term of service in Japan.

His wife is now visiting relatives in Louisville, Ky., where he will join her next week. They will leave early in April for Lt. Clay's new station in Turkey.

HOSPITAL NOTES—Mrs. Harry L. Stearns has returned from Crawford Long Hospital to her home at 1559 Peachtree St.

FEATURING the weekend social calendar will be the cocktail party at which Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bouziques will be hosts Saturday at their home on Penn avenue. Mrs. Dan Byrd will assist in entertaining the guests, who will gather at 5:30 o'clock.

MR. AND MRS. CLAYTON RICH have returned from Charleston, where they were weekend guests of the former's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Bushrod Howard.

LOUISA KAY is the name given the daughter born March 8 at Pocomoke, Md., to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Busbey. Mrs. Busbey is the former Rebecca Cowan of Atlanta.

LEAVING FOR FLORIDA on Monday were Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Addison, who have taken a cottage on Miami Beach for a month.

THE OKEFENOKE SWAMP near Waycross was the destination of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Toombs, their son, Mike Toombs, and their daughter, Miss Joanna Hereford, who left Wednesday by motor to spend several days at Stephen Foster Lodge while they explore the swamp.

Miss Hereford is at home for her spring holidays from Emma Willard School, Troy, N.Y., and Mike Toombs is on vacation from the Hackley School of New York.

MRS. CLIFFORD GROMMET and her children, Glenn, Kay and Lesley, have arrived from Los Angeles and are guests of Mrs. Grommet's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Larned of College Park.

After a two-week visit here, the Grommets will go to join Mr. Grommet for residence in Flint, Mich., where he has been transferred.

MRS. ELIZABETH SKINNER EVANS of the Howell House is vacationing at the Homestead, Hot Springs, Va.

MISS NORMA JEAN PRATER has been initiated into the Delta Zeta Sorority at the University of Alabama.

Mrs. Phillip Hammer To Lead Discussion

Mrs. Phillip Hammer will act as discussion leader at a meeting of the United Nations

Forum at 11 a.m. Friday at the Atlanta Public Library. "Proposals for Amending the UN Charter" will be the topic for discussion. The forum is held monthly by the Atlanta UN Council, with the public invited.

DAILY GUIDE—It may be that only the little things count today, but if you give them the proper attention they can count importantly. It is a day for co-operating fully with the other fellow. Small chores which you have neglected can now be dusted off with dispatch and forgotten when more stirring events come along.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, ARIES—Beginning next week you have a much more active period in which you can go ahead with plans and projects, so wait a little before rushing forward! Your restlessness is likely to increase this year even if you have had all the drastic changes due for you. However, after May you can expect such changes to be made under more favorable circumstances. Your desire to indulge in fireworks during the early fall should be curbed. Up to May there are favorable indications for travel or communications, so speak your piece graciously and be rewarded. This is the time when you could feel the promise of changes coming soon.

Sorority To Award 'Brenda'

Annual "Brenda" Award Luncheon of the Atlanta Alumnae Chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, national journalism sorority, will be held Saturday, April 24, at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

The Atlanta chapter will present its "Brenda" award this year for "three-dimensional public relations," spokesmen reported.

The journalism honor group each year recognizes one or more Atlantans for outstanding accomplishments in some phase of journalism. Former recipients of the "Brenda," a sleek little statuette modeled after Hollywood's "Oscar," are Leo Aikman, columnist and editorial assistant for The Atlanta Constitution; Ollie Reeves, poet laureate of Georgia and also a Constitution columnist; Ernest Rogers, Atlanta Journal columnist, and Bob Van Camp, WSB-TV star. Reeves will serve as master of ceremonies at the April 24 luncheon, set for 12:30 p.m. at the Atlanta Athletic Club. Recipient of this year's "Brenda" will be announced later. A limited number of outside guests may attend the event. Reservations may be made by writing Theta Sigma Phi, Box 1845, Atlanta.

Atlanta's Theta Sigma Phi chapter is made up of women who work in advertising, radio and television, newspaper, public relations, and allied fields of public communications. It is affiliated with a national organization which numbers thousands of members on and off college campuses.

Oscar Awards Set for 10:30 P. M.

HOLLYWOOD, March 24 (UP)—MovieLand's biggest give-away show, the 26th annual Oscar parade, will splash across TV screens tomorrow night with a host of well-known stars presenting awards to the less familiar winners. (The show will be featured on WSB-TV and radio beginning at 10:30 p.m.)

The array of stars giving Oscars away during NBC's two-hour show reads like a "Who's Who in Hollywood." There are no many top-flight actors in the give-away department that many big names have been relegated to presenting minor awards.

For instance, television's Jack Webb will present a golden statuette to the winner of the sound award, and glamorous Elizabeth Taylor will hand out the best documentary short-subject Oscar.

Eather Williams will make the film editing award while dashing Tyrone Power will have the unglamorous task of awarding the scientific and technical Oscar. Gene Tierney, formerly married to fashion designer Oleg Cassini, will be in her element when she presents the costume design award.

Kirk Douglas, whose best known literary effort was a note to Jack Dempsey's ex-fiancee, is scheduled to hand out the writing award. Dancers Marge and Gower Champion will be on tap to make the art direction presentation.

Marilyn Erskine and Keefe Braselle will give Oscars for the best cartoon short subjects. Lovely Irene Dunne will give the award for best direction, with Fred Zinnemann ("From Here to Eternity") and William Wyler ("Roman Holiday") favored to cop the poker-faced statue.

Walter Brennan, an Oscar holder himself, has been chosen to present the winning supporting actress with her award. Favorites are Thelma Ritter for her role in "Pickup on South Street," and Donna Reed for "From Here to Eternity."

The morning line has installed Frank Sinatra as a prohibitive favorite for best supporting actor for "From Here to Eternity." Given an outside chance is Robert Strauss in "Stalag 17." Mercedes McCambridge, also an Oscar owner, will make the presentation. Gary Cooper will be seen by televisioners when he makes his presentation of the best actress award. His portion of the program was filmed in Mexico some time ago. Best bet for Oscar's company in this race is Audrey Hepburn—who, the sharp boys say, will win going away for "Roman Holiday."

Shirley Booth, like Cooper, an Oscar winner last year, will award the best actor Oscar. She will be seen on live TV pick-up from Philadelphia. William Holden ("Stalag 17") and Burt Lancaster ("From Here to Eternity") are the favorites.

In addition to the stars presenting Oscars, Donald O'Connor will be on hand as master of ceremonies with Fredric March handling the New York portion.

Even the sponsor (Oldsmobile) hired a star to pitch the commercials—former radio announcer, Paul Douglas.

The five songs nominated for awards will be sung by an all-star cast.

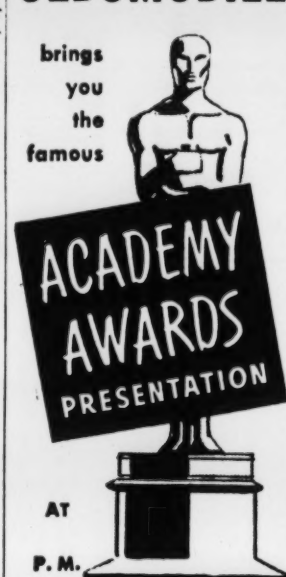

Ann Blyth will sing "Secret Love;" Dean Martin will render "That's Amore;" Margaret Whiting will warble "My Flamingo."

Heart; Connie Russell sings "Sadie Thompson's Song," and Donald O'Connor and Mita Gaynor will sing and dance "The Moon Is Blue."

NBC is working overtime to bring the expected 50,000 viewers a personality who has nothing at all to do with giving or receiving an Oscar. She does, however, make more news than the rest of the stars combined.

So look for the giant network to come up with a pleasant surprise in the person of—you guessed it—Marilyn Monroe!

Market Gains Urged for Ga. Poultry

Constitution State News Service
ATHENS, March 24—The depressed market situation in the Georgia broiler industry is becoming acute, a University of Georgia poultry marketing specialist said Wednesday, and he cited the need for "strong industry-wide committee to sit down and discuss broiler prices and problems."

John Mauldin, Agricultural Extension Service poultry marketing specialist, stated that broiler production continues to expand in this state at a rapid rate and that we are now producing one-fifth of the broilers in the nation here in Georgia.

Pointing to the specific difficulty at hand, Mauldin said that chicks placed with growers in Georgia in January are now being marketed and that these placements were from 10 to 25 per cent higher than they were one year earlier.

"We have not done a merchandising and selling job that is good enough to take care of 25 additional broilers more for every 100 grown in 1953," he stated.

The marketing expert called attention to four rules to follow to relieve the situation, in addition to the industry-wide committee needed to study the problem:

1. More efficiency in production of broilers.
2. Better quality broilers grown and processed so that Georgia can compete with any other areas in this business.
3. More efficiency in processing, distribution and merchandising birds.
4. Developing new market outlets for Georgia-grown birds.

COMMERCIAL COMMENT

Non-Farm Jobs Here Still Above Year Ago

By JIM MONTGOMERY

Although Atlanta's non-farm employment last month stood at 236,000—some 800 workers below the January level—it remained 3,900 above February a year ago, Georgia Labor Commissioner Ben T. Huie said Wednesday.

Except for seasonal layoffs in the retail trade group, February employment in the three-county Atlanta area would have topped January too. Almost all major types of work, led by construction and manufacturing, counted significant gains over the previous month and year.

But non-farm employment over the state, dropping for the second straight month, stood at 888,200 in February. This 2,800-worker loss from January was attributed to seasonal cutbacks by trade establishments and continued curtailment of government agencies.

Earlier this week, however, Huie noted a reversal of this trend based on a decline in unemployment claims during the first three weeks in March.

He added that the usual seasonal upturn which occurs about this time of year should further brighten Georgia employment prospects.

AF Readies Jet Cargo Ships Also

The fast moving Air Force of tomorrow is going to depend on equally rapid cargo and transport airplanes to keep its supplies at an operable level, R. R. Kearton, assistant manufacturing manager of the Georgia Division of Lockheed Aircraft Corp., told LaGrange Rotary Club members Wednesday.

One of the airplanes to provide this transport need for the sonic and supersonic speed Air Force is the revolutionary CL300 turbo-prop cargo plane which soon will be in production at the Marietta plant of Lockheed, he said.

Kearton said the public was giving its biggest attention commercially to jet transports. He said the turbo-prop (a jet engine harnessed to a propeller) cargo plane will find great use in the developing of economical, high speed cargo handling for military and commercial users.

Kearton predicted a surge in air freight business with the development of the turbo-prop cargo carriers.

Long Gains Blamed for Stock Dip

By RADER WINGET
NEW YORK, March 24 (AP)—The stock market went through its second session of concentrated selling today, and there were only scattered indications of buying support at hand.

Prices were down at the opening, and they continued to lose ground until near the close, when modest recovery tendencies were sighted.

Aircrafts were erratic with wide swings, mostly at lower prices, but some plus signs dotted the group at the finish.

No single news development was cited by brokers for the two-day fall.

LONG-TERM GAINS
There was a tendency to side with the theory that the market hit a new high for the year last Friday and held to that level on Monday and therefore the list was ripe for profit-taking.

Furthermore, the bottom of last year's market came a little more than six months ago. Thus it is possible now to see stocks and record profits as long-term capital gains. Everyone naturally wants to hold for maximum profit, but it is necessary to sell quickly when and if the market turns. Some brokers believe that type of quick profit-taking added weight to the market's fall yesterday and today.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 60 cents at $115.00.

At one time the pace of trading hit the two-million mark, but it slowed when the market steadied itself and came to 1,900,000 shares. This compares with 2,180,000 shares traded yesterday.

PENNSY MOST ACTIVE
Pennsylvania Railroad was the day's most active issue off 1/4 at 42.70. The fall followed the March board of directors meeting at which no dividend action was taken.

Mullins Mfg. was second most active up 1/4 at 27 1/2 in the midst of merger rumors and denials.

Curtiss-Wright, in top spot the past two days, was in third place today up 1/4 at 10 1/2, and it was followed by Lockheed off 1/2 at 34 1/2, and RKO unchanged at 5 1/2.

International Business Machines hit a new high for the year of 300 and closed up 4 at 297 after directors proposed a stock split consisting of issuance of 1/4 share for each share held.

Dry Goods
NEW YORK, March 24 (AP)—The cotton textile market was dull Wednesday. Dealers reported small sales of print cloths, mostly for spot and nearby delivery. They said bids by converters on forward goods were lower than most mill ideas. One purchaser of pocketing twills was reported to have sold a moderate quantity of those fabrics for spot and second quarter delivery. Some sales of drills for April shipment were also noted. The United States Army entered the market for 2,400,000 linear yards of cotton percale cloth in which bids were ordered on April 1.

NEW in Australian wool markets, however, pointed to no further weakening of prices. Wholesale dealers said that Memphis some mill men said that apparel manufacturers cannot wait much beyond early April to place orders for fall goods and get delivery in time.

In rayon goods, there were scattered sales of acetate tafetas and some constructions, mostly for prompt delivery.

Miss. Boom In Poultry Tops Nation

The U.S. Department of Commerce reported today poultry hatching in Mississippi increased 387.4 per cent in the past six years, the highest rate of any state in the nation.

Arkansas advanced 270.4 per cent to run second, the USDC said. Other gains since 1948 included Alabama, up 227 per cent and Georgia, 143 per cent.

Georgia's production of almost 133 million chicks last year was tops in the nation with Missouri second with almost 116 million. Georgia has led in this respect since 1952.

Other production gains for the period: Tennessee, up 97.7 per cent; Florida, up 86.3; North Carolina, 74.3 and South Carolina, 62.5.

Savings-Loan Panel Rates News Ads 1st

ST. LOUIS, March 24 (AP)—News-paper advertising was singled out as the most effective and economical savings and loan business getter at a panel discussion today before the annual conference of the American Savings and Loan Institute.

The panel members—John H. Randolph Jr., of Richmond, Va.; Michael A. Burdzy, St. Louis, J. H. Brantley, Atlanta, and George A. Rodellius, Chicago—picked radio as the second most effective method of advertising.

Randolph, a loan firm executive, said: "We use newspaper advertising because we can reach the most people for the fewest dollars."

Brantley said newspaper advertising is flexible enough so that separate appeals can be made to different groups such as businessmen, housewives and labor union members.

Mullins Mfg. was second most active up 1/4 at 27 1/2 in the midst of merger rumors and denials.

NEW in Australian wool markets, however, pointed to no further weakening of prices. Wholesale dealers said that Memphis some mill men said that apparel manufacturers cannot wait much beyond early April to place orders for fall goods and get delivery in time.

In rayon goods, there were scattered sales of acetate tafetas and some constructions, mostly for prompt delivery.

2 steps* which could save your family 50% or more on estate taxes

Most estates are transferred within a family. For example, from a husband to wife to children. Both of these transfers can be made in one will, resulting in great savings for the family by using two simple steps: * the marital deduction, and the life income plan.

By taking these two steps in your will, you will greatly conserve your estate for your family.

Our years of experience in estate planning may enable you to become better informed on this important subject which you can then discuss with your lawyer.

1 THE MARITAL DEDUCTION
which allows a deduction in the gross estate of 50% for property left to his wife. Result: Maximum savings in husband's estate.

2 LIFE INCOME PLAN
which permits the other 50% of the property to remain in his estate for the use of his wife for life, to be passed on at her death to the children. Result: Maximum savings in wife's estate.

Pearson, McCarthy Fight Anew

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy today accused columnist Drew Pearson of violating the espionage laws and the Wisconsin Republican had violated the same law.

McCarthy, in renewing a long-standing feud with Pearson, said two "Mr. Murphys"—one a former employee of the Munitions Board and the other a former Justice Department worker—gave Pearson "secret" information. The senator said he did not know their first names.

Pearson wrote Atty. Gen. Brownell requesting that McCarthy's charges against him be placed before a federal grand jury. He denied any wrongdoing.

He also asked Brownell to place before the same grand jury his charges that McCarthy twice violated the espionage act.

Pearson said McCarthy violated the espionage law when he published a 75-page "restricted" Army intelligence report on Siberia and again when the senator "made public" a military report from Korea. Pearson said McCarthy disclosed the date of the Korean report and said this would permit an enemy to "break" the U. S. code.

Film Music Leader Columbo Found Fatally Beaten in Car

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., March 24 (AP)—Alberto C. Columbo, 65, well-known motion picture music conductor and arranger, was found dead today in his convertible and police began an immediate investigation.

A preliminary examination of the body revealed Columbo apparently had been beaten before he died. Bruises and a deep cut were found over Columbo's right eye and around his ribs. County Autopsy Surgeon Dr. Frederick Newbarr said Columbo had been struck a "heavy blow" on the head.

Officials of the Musicians' Mutual Protective Assn. here and an MGM studio spokesman identified Columbo as a cousin of the late singer, Russ Columbo who was killed accidentally about 20 years ago while examining a pistol. They said the family name was spelled both "Columbo" and "Columbo."

Columbo's body was found by Mrs. Connie Burton. It was sprawled face down in the rear seat of the top-down convertible. Homicide detectives said the position of the body indicated it tried to hide the body. Columbo's wallet was in his pocket and no money had been taken.

Exact cause of death was not determined. An autopsy will be held tomorrow.

Columbo's wife, Elizabeth, and his son, Alberto Jr., identified the body. Neither could give police any lead to a possible slaying motive.

The bidding:
South West North East
4 hearts Pass 2 hearts Pass
Opening lead: King of clubs.

At the recent Miami City championships, most declarers suffered the same blind spot in the play of the hand shown today. Only one declarer, Mrs. Max Matz of Bluefield, W. Va., and Miami Beach, former National Woman's champion, succeeded in bringing home her contract of four hearts.

At all tables but one a contract of four hearts was reached. In one case, South chose to open with one no trump and was left at the post, for North, with seven points and without a five-card suit, had insufficient values for a raise. The bid of one no trump fails to meet with our approval, not because of possession of a five-card major, for many a hand containing five hearts or spades qualifies as an opening one no trump bid. The objective is to be found in the circumstance that the hand is slightly too good for an opening one no trump bid. The limit for such a call is 18 points. This hand has, in addition to 18 points, a five-card suit and an extra 10.

The king of clubs was the opening lead universally chosen, and most declarers saw nothing to it but finding the ace of spades right and went to it. When this failed to materialize, they had to lose two spades, a diamond and a club, and resigned to one trick set. All considered that they had gone down at the hands of a 50-50 chance. When Mrs. Matz was declarer, she found a play simple in its nature, but which offered better than a 50-50 chance. In fact, the line of play chosen by her made her a three-to-one favorite. She allowed herself two chances instead of one.

Declarer was fortunate in not having had to contend with a diamond opening, which in this case would have assured defeat of the contract. With the natural club lead, declarer could win the hand if she could set up a spade trick, even though late, in order to obtain the discard of a diamond out of dummy. She decided not to place all her eggs in one basket, in reliance on the favorable location of the spade ace. If East had that card, the king could be established somewhat later. In the meantime, declarer gave herself the chance that West held the queen of spades.

Her first play, after drawing trumps, was a low spade to the jack. West had to go up, and as the ace of spades was dislodged on the next lead of that suit, declarer was able to discard one of dummy's diamonds on the king of spades. Had the jack of spades been lost to the queen, declarer still retained the chance that the spade ace was with East.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VANDELLEN

Ability To Relax Is a Lost Art

We envy those responsible citizens who take life seriously yet have the faculty of shelving their troubles or letting off steam.

The majority are endowed with nerves of steel and did not acquire the ability to relax through education or training. Men and women with this kind of constitution come well equipped to cope with modern civilization.

It is unfortunate that most of us are not built this way and are forced to battle tension in our daily lives. It affects our thoughts, emotions, and bodily functions and now and then leads to palpitation, headache, indigestion, shortness of breath, irritability, or tightness of the muscles.

When sustained, tension raises blood pressure and encourages peptic ulcer to form. In this respect, it is poison to most of us. Furthermore, we cannot see the trees for the forest in that we are always looking for the antidote but never find it because it is so close.

Relaxation is a lost art. The tired businessman no longer comes home from work, kicks off his shoes, and stretches out in an easy chair for 20 minutes of meditation before dinner. Nor are today's youngsters encouraged to light Dad's pipe or get his slippers.

Instead, on a cocktail to relax he turns to a television set to relieve his weary bones. This form of relaxation is artificial; it creates a sense of well being through stimulation.

Relaxation may be promoted in many other ways. Some obtain relief from the cares of the day by sitting in a tub of hot water for 15 to 20 minutes.

Physical exercise, such as walking or putting on the lawn before dinner, helps others. These simple and inexpensive measures have withstood the test of time.

Hobbies are receiving attention as the perfect relaxant. These diversions vary from wood-working to raising orchids, stamp collecting, model railroad building, and amateur photography.

Music also has been given a tremendous boost in popularity through improvements in recording machines; and reading continues to rate high. Vacations and travel offer a more prolonged period of relaxation and are most beneficial because the individual can unwind himself completely so that when he returns to work he is able to start from scratch.

Those who are unable to relax must take stock of their working and living conditions and correct the faults before it is too late. Most of these people are unable to see the difference between what matters and what does not.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Husband's Belittling Traced to Complex

Sue B., 29, was widowed in the Korean war and has now remarried.

"But I am so unhappy I don't know what to do," she spoke tearfully, "for my husband tells me he loves a former girl friend in California."

"But he insisted on our getting married and rushed me for six months in a mad courtship."

"Now he tells me I am no good as a wife. He says I am frigid and he can't get aroused by me."

"Every day he criticizes my looks and says I couldn't make any man happy."

"I'm so demoralized in my pride and confidence, that I almost feel like taking my own life."

"As you can see, I have a good figure and am considered good looking, so why am I such a failure as a wife?"

SHAKESPEARE PSYCHOLOGY

Shakespeare was a wonderful psychologist and gave us a key to this marital tragedy when he said "He doth protest too much."

She is a very lovely young woman. She is not conceited when she says she has a good figure and is considered attractive.

So why does her husband keep belittling her in the sexual realm? Why does he try to deflate her pride and reduce her to tears every night?

Well, it's because he is defeated in his own pride. He feels inferior to her first husband, even though the latter is dead.

For he has absorbed the erroneous viewpoint that women are passionate creatures. They are definitely not, despite the Kinsey report to the contrary.

SEXUAL QUARRELS

But this young husband felt that Sue should be wildly excited by his love making. When she didn't fit into his stereotyped thinking of how a passionate woman should react, he was offended.

Soon he developed a sexual inferiority complex. In fact, for the last three months their marriage has been largely platonic, for he has been almost entirely impotent, due to his defeatism complex.

But the average man is inclined to project blame. So, although he thinks he is inferior to Sue's first husband, he doesn't confess that thought.

Actually, he loves her but is so tortured by his feeling of inferiority to her former husband, that he can't stand it. He is almost mad with jealousy and sexual frustration.

SCIENCE IS SIMPLE

The essence of science is simplicity. Applied to Sue's problem, that means the quickest way to banish their quarrelling, would be for Sue to wax more ardent and erotic, even if she feigns a much greater interest than is natural.

Indeed, successful wives usually must feign extra ardor in order to mollify their husbands.

As soon as Sue followed this advice and applied the strategy described in the bulletin below, she changed her husband. Within a week, he was a devoted, admiring sweetheart who no longer caustically criticized her.

So send for my bulletin "How to Prevent Impotence in Men," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus a dime. It applies to young husbands as well as to middle-aged "Ponce de Leon" cases.

A Rhyme a Day

NEW YORK—"Members of Explorers Club hold 50th anniversary banquet and dine on exotic foods such as fried termites, one-thousand-year-old eggs from China, polar bear steaks and dried yak meat."—News item.

Whenever the call of adventure is heard . . . not many reply but there ever will be . . . some few who will listen; their spirits are stirred . . . to answer the challenge of mountain or sea.

They fight through the jungle and "mush" through the snow . . . they freeze, or they swelter in tropical heat . . . and faced with starvation, wherever they go . . . they always are looking for something to eat.

The calls to adventure I heard in my youth . . . were challenging calls and persistently made . . . but I never answered; to tell you the truth . . . (I hate to admit it, but I was afraid . . .) afraid of a life that was rugged and rude . . . afraid to do anything reckless or rash . . . and yet, I am certain there isn't a food . . . that I haven't eaten in boarding-house hash.

RECORD REVIEW

'Gurrelieder' Of Schoenberg Is Excellent

SCHOENBERG'S GURRELIEDER—Chorus and orchestra of the Symphony Society of Paris, Rene Leibowitz, director (Haydn Society).

Schoenberg's "Gurrelieder" is a connecting link between Romanticism and the contemporary. The story is one from Danish mythology, woven into a poem in 1870 by Jens Peter Jacobsen.

"Gurre" is the name of the castle King Waldemar builds for his sweetheart, Tove. This deeply inspired tonal painting follows the various vicissitudes of this love, ending with the song of the Forest Dove, who describes the death of Tove.

That Schoenberg's early style is reminiscent of Wagner, Mahler or even Richard Strauss, is of little import. The beauty of line, complexity of counterpoint and the expressionistic mood of the music all give this work of the youthful Schoenberg a monumental quality seldom attained by composers.

The "Gurrelieder" is scored for a monstrous orchestra and chorus and presents production problems that are insurmountable for the average symphonic organization of today. Nevertheless Schoenberg's texture is consistently clear, rich and colorful.

The recording is excellent and the singers, orchestra and chorus, perform with balance and taste this complicated symphonic poem under the direction of Rene Leibowitz.

Quality records serve a great purpose when the majority of musicians and lovers of music will seldom have the opportunity to be in the right place at the right time for the rare performance of these outsized musical compositions.—T. M. B.

WITHOUT THIS VITAL MOISTURE YOUR HAIR CAN "DIE" OF THIRST

Yet, Dermatologists report lost oil-and-moisture balance can be restored to revive "life", lustre, manageability and curl-tendency in dehydrated hair.

Human Hair owes its healthy, handsome appearance, its "life", strength and manageability to the fact that, under ideal conditions, it contains and retains as much as 80% moisture that, normally, is "married" to the hair by the scalp's natural oils.

This vital moisture and its protective oils evaporate in dry atmospheres, in heated homes and offices, often at a faster rate than the hair can absorb and retain them. Sun and wind, improper drying, waving, curling, dyeing and shampooing practices also dehydrate hair dangerously.

Yes! Today, men and women fight nature by having their hair dyed, fried, burned, baked, raked, permuted, peroxidized, roasted, toasted, twisted, curled, clamped, cut, trimmed and trampled. They choose and use soaps, detergents, permanent solutions, alcohol-base tonics, bleaches, tints, dyes, dressings, beer, vinegar, chemical rinses, lemon rinses, hot-air blowers, drying machines . . . the deadliest enemies of hair.

Result, you don't just "wash" and "dry" your hair. You literally DEHYDRATE it. You take out the moisture and natural oils your hair must have, in order to look healthy, glossy, vigorous, best. It takes nature hours, often days, to correct this drab, dry, dehydrated condition. Mere wetting, or dampening your brush won't help. No wonder people's hair looks, acts, feels and is like hay, straw or dehydrated soup!

Is there a substance that can work with, instead of against, nature? A substance friendly to hair, instead of its enemy? Science now knows there is. Its name: Lanolin.

Lanolin, which nature itself invented to supply both moisture and oils to hair, not only contains the same constituents as your own natural oils . . . but ABSORBS MOISTURE TOO!

That's why lanolin can so amazingly prevent hardening, harshening, coarsening, drying and dehydrating of scalp and hair. That's why lanolin can so amazingly absorb moisture to correct, protect and control your hair's natural "oil-and-moisture balance."

That's why lanolin can so amazingly supply the same "esters and cholesterol" (beneficial substances) your own natural oils contain.

That's why lanolin can carry into your scalp and hair both the moisture and the mysterious natural oil ingredients which you take away every time you dehydrate your hair.

In short: Only Lanolin can naturally correct, protect, control and supply both the moisture and natural oils absolutely vital for the vibrant, alive-looking, healthy-looking hair every man and woman wants.

Do soaps, detergents, permanent solutions, alcohol-base tonics, bleaches, tints, dyes, beer, vinegar, chemical rinses or lemon rinses supply this natural combination? No; they were not made nor intended to do so. This is Lanolin's job.

But wait; read carefully. The lanolin we are talking about is not ordinary lanolin.

We are talking about famous Charles Antell Formula 9, made with super-refined, anhydrous lanolin, which dermatologists report, can restore lost oil and moisture balance to revive "life", lustre, manageability and curl tendency in dehydrated hair.

Formula 9 has more users, customers and endorsements than any other product in hair-history: proof of astounding success. Because human hair is sexless, Charles Antell's Formula 9 is equally effective in the treatment of dry hair for men and women . . . so effective that Charles Antell's Formula 9 is today America's number one product for the care of the scalp and hair, with men and with women. No ordinary hair dressing made offers men the good grooming and hair "life" qualities found in Formula 9.

When you shampoo your hair, use Charles Antell Lanolin Shampoo, also. It, too, is made with super-refined lanolin, to cleanse without dehydrating. Formula 9, Cream or Liquid, from 50c. Charles Antell Shampoo, from 50c. Special money saving Formula 9 and Shampoo offers, from $1.35. Available at drug and cosmetic counters everywhere.

"TILT IT MORE, TOMMY!"—MOULTRIE, March 24—This month-old otter eats hungrily as it is fed milk from a bottle held by Tommy Rogers. This is one of three otters found at Bridge Creek in Colquitt County by Tommy's father, M. A. Rogers, and a neighbor.

No Regrets for Last Race, Thompson Says

ATHENS, March 24—Former Gov. M. E. Thompson speaking tonight to persons from six surrounding counties declared that he does not regret his unsuccessful 1950 gubernatorial race since "all my measures have since been enacted."

"I only think," Thompson added, "that it's time M. E. Thompson got credit for them again."

Speaking under sponsorship of the University of Georgia Thompson for Governor Club, the former governor said his slogan in the current campaign will be "I ain't mad at nobody yet."

Thompson reaffirmed his stand on the issues of segregation, the county unit system and toll roads.

He pledged to keep schools separate if elected. On the county unit system, Thompson said he would leave, neither weakening nor extending, that system "just as he finds it."

On the question of toll roads, Thompson said flatly he is against "taking the highways out of the hands of the Georgia people."

Thompson affirmed his belief in loyalty oaths as such but compared the "relative clause" of the state loyalty questionnaire to Russia's extension of justice or injustice into the family circle.

Puerto Rico Turns From Single Crop

Puerto Rico, with U.S. aid and encouragement, is finding economic salvation through a balance of diversified farming and mushrooming new industries, an official of the territory's agriculture department said here Wednesday.

John F. Boulton, in Atlanta for the convention of the National Association of Produce Market Managers, painted a picture of economic optimism among the people back home, discounting reports that the island is a fertile field for communism and revolution.

Boulton, who is representing Puerto Rico's agriculture commissioner, said his people are discovering, as did the South, that they must turn from a one-crop system to diversified farming if they are to prosper.

The trend in agriculture, he said, is away from the long-dominant sugar cane crop to coffee, bananas and "garden" crops like tomatoes.

Thursday's program will include addresses by Gov. Talmadge; Peyton Anderson, Macon publisher; Robert Martin, manager of the State Farmers' Market, Columbia, S.C.; W. C. Crow, marketing research expert of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and Dr. George King, University of Georgia.
